

Big Four Told

Get Back To Summit

Big Two Slapped By UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations Security Council Friday asked the Big Four to renew the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week and also gave the Soviet Union oblique satisfaction on its complaint of spying by the United States.

The 11-member council adopted by a vote of 9-to-0 with two abstentions a compromise resolution which in part appealed to all UN members to "respect each other's sovereignty."

PACIFY RUSSIA

This clause was seen as an effort to pacify Russian wrath that U.S. spy planes have operated over Soviet territory, resulting in the destruction of a U-2 jet aircraft May 1.

But it fell short of Soviet demands that the U.S. be condemned for aggression by reason of the flights. Russian amendments referring specifically to "incursions by foreign aircraft" were defeated. They were supported only by the Soviet Union and Communist Poland and opposed by six countries while Ceylon, Tunisia and Ecuador abstained.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko scheduled a press conference for this morning but his bearing at the end of Friday's session—the fifth day of an emergency meeting demanded by Russia—indicated that he was not unduly displeased at the resolution that was passed.

The compromise resolution was sponsored by Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia and revised shortly before the vote Friday in a successful attempt to get around a Soviet veto.

NO OPPOSITION

The U.S., Britain, France, Nationalist China, Argentina, Ecuador, Ceylon, Italy and Tunisia voted for the proposal. There were no opposition votes and only the Communist countries abstained.

While the resolution endorsed new meetings among the Big Four, the tenor of charges and counter-charges between the U.S. and Russia indicated that the cold war's chill has not abated.

INCLUDING CANADA

The fact that a compromise resolution was passed at all was seen as a victory for the smaller countries in the Security Council and for others in the UN, including Canada, who have been pleading for moderation since the council began.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Friday sharply assailed Gromyko's charge earlier that President Eisenhower and his government by their policies are placing the world on the brink of war.

Mystery 'Object' No Sub

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—A U.S. navy spokesman said last night the navy was "fairly certain" an underwater object earlier contacted by electronics sound was not a submarine.

Capt. Sam Loomis, chief of staff for the commander of the naval base, Key West, said the navy now believed the object was some sort of underwater wreckage.

There had been immediate speculation the ship might be Russian.

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Lucille lashed the island of Luzon today. Unofficial sources reported at least 151 persons were dead or missing in the swirling waters flooding many areas.

CHEERING TURKS HAIL NEW MILITARY CHIEFS

Menderes Arrested May Face Trial

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Jubilant Turks cheered through the streets Friday, hailing military leaders for ousting the dictatorial Premier Adnan Menderes.

Ousted president Celal Bayar attempted to commit suicide when arrested by army officers.

Before Bayar was arrested in the army coup, several shots were heard near the presidential home at Chankaya, near Ankara.

An army lieutenant-colonel with a gun in his hand entered Bayar's room and asked him to surrender, sources said.

Bayar is reported to have met his visitor standing, produced a small pistol and attempted to commit suicide, but the officer intervened.

Bayar's wife and daughter also were reported placed under protective custody.

Menderes and many of his ministers and parliamentary supporters were under arrest following the early-morning coup.

TRIAL POSSIBLE

A military spokesman hinted the deposed premier might be put on trial.

The head of the new ruling military group declared he has no desire to become a dictator.

Newspapers silenced by Menderes' increasingly arbitrary regime were told they could resume publishing immediately. Announcements said all public officials will return to normal duties today. Military commanders were ordered to ensure that the situation in the country remains normal.

POPULACE RELIEVED

Throughout the country the population reacted with relief at the overthrow of Menderes' government. In Istanbul civilians embraced members of the armed forces in the streets. There were tears of joy from youthful demonstrators who had spearheaded protests against the Menderes regime.

There also were cheers when Lt.-Gen. Cemal Gursel, an old soldier recently tossed out by Menderes as head of the ground forces, announced in a special communique that parliament had been dissolved. New elections were promised "soon."

HEADS GROUP

Gursel heads the group of high-ranking air force, army and navy officers who set up "the Turkish national union committee."

The rebellion that ended the 16-year Menderes' regime after weeks of unrest and demonstrations started in Ankara just after midnight.

War college cadets marched on the official residences of President Celal Bayar and Menderes. There was some gunfire but military authorities denied reports that one cadet was killed.

Trapper 'Victim' Caught

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—RCMP investigating the death of a man whose body was found in a burned trapper's cabin have arrested the man who was first believed to be the victim.

Charles Christian Jonasson, 22, was to appear in court today.

The body found last Monday in a cabin at Barrier Lake has now been identified as Arthur Blomberg, 53, a commercial fisherman.

Toll Grows

Starving Chileans Loot, Riot

SANTIAGO (UPI) — New earth tremors jarred Chile yesterday and food riots were reported as America mounted a massive aid program to quake-devastated regions where the dead and missing toll approached the 6,000 mark.

Rioting and knife fights for bread were reported from Valdivia. Unconfirmed but persistent reports circulated that looters had been summarily executed in the Puerto Montt area.

TOLL 5,717

Unofficial compilation of dead and missing placed Chile's week-long quake-tidal wave toll at 5,717. The government figure was 4,468 with 1,898 dead and 2,570 missing.

Five quakes in 24 hours increased the misery and despair in the south, where hundreds of thousands were already homeless, many of them almost at the starvation stage.

Fresh tales of horror reached Santiago as communications improved with the quake-stricken region.

400 BURIED

Reports from the Arucana Indian reservation at Pehueco, in Cautin province, said 400 of them were buried alive in Sunday's quake.

Miguel Letelier, a student at Austral University, told how people in Valdivia, capital city of the province of the same name, "are starving." He said a dozen plane-loads of relief foodstuffs had arrived "but Valdivia has 80,000 inhabitants."

Letelier said there had been several food riots in the town, "even knife fights over a piece of bread."

ROBERT STRACHAN
... patient first

For B.C.

Health Plan CCF's Aim

PENTICTON (CP) — A CCF government in British Columbia would introduce a comprehensive health insurance scheme based on the philosophy that "needs of the patient are paramount," party leader Robert Strachan said Friday.

Mr. Strachan told a nominating convention here the plan would be built on five principles.

It would:

- Cover every citizen in the province;
- Be administered by a body responsible to the legislature;
- Preserve the current doctor-patient relationship and retain the right of the patient to choose his own doctor;
- Treat the medical profession fairly;
- Not allow any third party, such as a private insurance company, "to make a financial profit out of the human misery caused by ill health."

SOLE OBJECTIVE

Referring to the final point, Mr. Strachan said he is very sorry to see the medical profession currently lining itself up with the insurance companies, "whose sole objective is to provide the minimum of coverage with the maximum of financial profit."

Arguments that such a plan is not necessary because 60 per cent of the population of the province is covered by some form of health insurance plan are not valid, he said.

COMPLETE COVERAGE

"None of the plans presently in effect give complete coverage and many necessary services are excluded from these plans. All of the plans, without exception, demand high premiums for incomplete coverage."

He said the plan, like the British health service, would not have doctors on a salary.

FULL DISCUSSION

"A CCF government, after full discussion with the medical profession, will use the system that is most efficient and economical but there will be no complete salary basis."

Cigaret Addict's Diary

All Is Not Lost If You Smoked

By TERRY HAMMOND

Q-Day plus seven.

A lot of people who are following the Arthur King method to stop smoking cigarettes are under the impression that if they so much as weaken once they might just as well quit quitting.

This isn't so. You can go on quitting for seven years if you want to.

ALL NOT LOST

If during the past week you have lit up a couple of smokes during a period when normally you would have smoked 10 packages, all is not lost.

At the same time, if you've slipped through 10 packages when you would normally have smoked only eight, then the Arthur King system is not for you.

So at the end of each day,

if you have slipped once or twice, don't just give up. Simply tell yourself that you will do better tomorrow.

Tell yourself this every night.

After about a week you will come to the conclusion that you are not just weak-willed, but a liar as well.

If you have become a backslider remember that you have invested almost a month of your attention in the Arthur King system.

You have three alternatives:

1. You can simply drift back into the high-consumption category and lose your investment.

2. You can make tomorrow a new Q-Day and start again with greater resolution.

3. You can get in an airplane and fly down to Poughkeepsie and belt old Arthur King right between the eyes.

"It started out as a gimmick," said a spokesman for the busy Oxford Street store.

"Now it's become a craze."

He explained that one day in early spring the shop manager began thinking of a new way to catch the eyes of window shoppers. He hit on the super-short skirt.

"We raised the skirts to about an inch above the dummy models' knees," he said, "and then put three stiff petticoats beneath them. That got them pretty high."

He said no one in the shop ever dreamed they were starting a style. But the effect was immediate.

"The girls are dictating this fashion," said the shop's chief designer. "No designer would dare give a lead like this. Some of the skirts are awfully, awfully short."

The spokesman said the manager told his clerks to warn every purchaser of the perils involved in wearing skirts four to six inches above the knees.

"Although the view from some angles takes in more territory," he said, "the girls don't seem to care. We can't understand it."

Up Go Skirts as Girls Call Tune

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

RECENTLY a grizzly bear caught a hunter and chewed some holes in him. The man was lucky to escape with his life.

I respect the man's strength and bravery, but I have no sympathy for him. He was out hunting bear, with the intention of killing one. It's a refreshing turnabout, to see a bear wound a hunter for a change.

I'm told that the grizzly bear is one of the most formidable beasts alive. He has an ugly temper. He wouldn't thank anyone for taking his part.

All the same, I would like to raise a cheer for the bear—from a safe distance.

I'm not trying to say that hunting is evil. Surely there is merit to the arguments in favor of shooting and fishing. These pursuits take city-dwellers outdoors. Hunting keeps men in touch with the primitive world of struggle and bloodshed.

Men need to be reminded of that world. They spring from it themselves, and the old warfare of tooth and claw goes on as ever, outside the safe walls that humans have built around their species.

Shooting and fishing give men the sense of physical achievement which is lacking in this age of power mower and the frozen-TV dinner.

Personally I don't like killing animals. I won't make a virtue of being squeamish. That's the way I am. No doubt I would change if I were hungry enough.

Once in a while I go fishing. I like catching fish (on the rare occasions when I do) and I like eating them. But I don't enjoy knocking them on the head. Who does, you may ask.

The answer is that a lot of people enjoy it, although few of them will admit as much. It's a more acceptable kind of sadism than carving up fellow-humans with switchblade knives. But it's sadism, all the same.

In my teens when I could find no other way to earn a dollar I spent a couple of months working in a small-town butcher's store. I was probably the most useless boy they had ever hired.

They treated me well, considering how inept I was at the work. But the proprietor made a remark that chilled my blood. I had asked him why he became a butcher. He answered, without a trace of irony:

"Because I liked the killing."

And he meant it. That's the reason why some people go hunting—because they like the killing. Love of the outdoors, the thrill of the chase—these are secondary motives for such people.

For many men, hunting probably is a healthy pastime that fills an emotional need. It takes flabby clerks outdoors, gives them a sense of achievement and reminds them (perhaps) that fresh meat comes from live creatures that have blood and breath.

Hunting trims down the number of wild animals and prevents them from over-running their food supply.

However, hunters have most of the advantage on their side. The worst that can happen to them usually is to return empty-handed and take some kidding from their friends, or bring home a gory prize and submit to nagging from a neat wife who doesn't want a mess in the house. (She'd rather have a plastic-wrapped roast from the supermarket).

But when the deer or the bear loses, he's dead. Scarcely an equal contest.

That's why I'm glad to see the bear win the game for a change.

Blackstock to Check

Trained Dogs for Police Win Scurrah's Support

Use of trained dogs to assist in police work has caught the attention of Victoria police commissioners, who yesterday asked Chief Constable John Blackstock to make a further study of the proposal.

"The idea seems to have some merit," said Mayor Percy Scurrah, chairman of the commission.

"It has," the chief agreed. "Calgary has four dogs on staff."

"This might be the answer to the two-man prowler car problem," the mayor added.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Roman Catholic population of the U.S. reached 40,871,302 Jan. 1. This represented an increase of 1,365,827 in a year and a 13,105,161 or 47.2 per cent increase over 1930.

Police union had just recommended that at least two men ride in prowler cars at night. Commissioners replied that at present they were not in a position to add to police personnel.

Question of what to do with intoxicated juveniles when they are arrested, brought up through a letter from Juvenile Officer Lyle Somers, caused the commission some concern.

Under the Juvenile Act, such cases are held in the juvenile detention home only when approval for other disposition cannot be obtained from the juvenile court judge or the parents, and Victoria's home has no facilities for holding drunks. Commissioner William Hamilton said they'd been warned about this for years, but nothing had been done.

Lawyer Joseph McKenna appeared on behalf of two Chinese societies seeking incorporation so their members may engage in small-time gambling legally.

Mr. McKenna told the commission would-be members of the societies were hard-working, honest men who "like an occasional fling at gambling. Surely it is better this way."

Mayor Scurrah said: "My attitude on this matter is based solely on objections I have received from Chinese citizens themselves. I have had telephone calls and letters, that were pitiful, telling me of young boys losing money in such clubs that they cannot afford."

He assured Mr. McKenna the matter would be discussed thoroughly.

'Insignificant'

U.S. Stops Aid Castro Sneers

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Castro last night adopted a "what-do-I-care" attitude toward the U.S. announcement that it was cutting off economic aid to Cuba and said the act constitutes "moral damage" to America rather than damage to Cuba's economy.

Castro, in his regular weekly television broadcast to the nation, called such aid "insignificant."

He said the U.S. cut off aid because it was analyzed at Castro's promise to provide $1,000,000 in relief for earthquake-stricken Chile.

"Like as not now they are going to give more technical aid to (Nicaragua's Luis) Somoza, (The Dominican Republic's Rafael) Trujillo or (Paraguay's Alfredo) Stroessner or (Francisco) Franco, that great democrat who governs Spain," Castro said sarcastically.

Earlier, Government radio commentators labelled the Washington announcement as "new aggression" toward Cuba. Bulletins given over the radio included the phrase "U.S. threats cannot halt the revolution."

Protests Expected Over Water Rates

The Public Utilities Commission hasn't received any formal objections yet, a spokesman said yesterday, to a Greater Victoria water board application for increased water rates outside municipal borders.

But it expects some, and in the normal course of events that will entail a public hearing before the PUC makes its decision on the application.

Several persons telephoned to object informally even before the proposed new rates were advertised, the spokesman said.

For homes in the area outside Greater Victoria served by the district, mostly in View Royal, Colwood and Langford, present bi-monthly rates for a 1/2-inch meter are $2.50 up to 100 cubic feet, 20 cents for each 100 cubic feet up to 2,000, and 10 cents per 100 beyond that.

The rates the board hopes to make effective from Sept. 1 are $4, 20 cents and 15 cents.

Stalin Planted 28 Mikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Averell Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to Russia, said Friday the British military mission in Moscow once found 28 hidden microphones in its quarters there.

Harriman told young political leaders from NATO countries about a conversation he had with Josef Stalin on the matter.

In 1944 while he was ambassador, Harriman said, the Russians suddenly demanded that the British recall Gen. Leslie Burroughs, chief of the British military mission. Harriman went to Stalin to complain about the action. He said the Soviet leader looked at him slyly and said:

"We don't object to being criticized, but we do object to being called 'barbarians.'"

Harriman said he replied: "But General Burroughs would never say that."

"We know that he called us barbarians," Stalin retorted. A short time later the British carefully checked their mission headquarters, which was both office and residence, and found the 28 microphones.

"They were all connected with a telephone across the street," Harriman said.

"We sometimes used such language in our embassy," Harriman said, "so I asked Stalin how his relations were with us. He said we were 'pretty good friends.' I concluded from that that they had not penetrated our embassy." Harriman denied that the ambassador great seal of the U.S. displayed in the UN this week was "bugged" while he was in the UN.

Ike Admitted Spy Flights To Avoid Nikita's Trap

Khrushchev Had Orders Herter Tells U.S. Probe

(By AP and UPI)

WASHINGTON—United States State Secretary Christian A. Herter testified Friday that President Eisenhower took personal responsibility for spy flights over Russia to avoid a trap set for him by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Furthermore, Herter told critical senators, it was better to tell the truth about the flights—once Khrushchev had evidence to prove them—than to be drawn deeper and deeper into a lie before the world.

UNPRECEDENTED ACTION

But he acknowledged the president took unprecedented action in making a clean breast of the affair and assuming responsibility for the espionage operations.

Herter was leadoff witness in a hearing called by the Senate foreign relations committee in an effort to get to the bottom of the U-2 spy plane incident and the causes of the summit conference failure in Paris May 16.

FACTOR IN COLLAPSE

Herter conceded that Russian capture of a wrecked U-2 spy plane and its pilot May 1 was a factor in the collapse of the summit conference.

He denied that it was Eisenhower's personal role which triggered the summit explosion.

Khrushchev used the U-2 incident to blow up the Big Four meeting and tried to put the blame on Eisenhower, Herter declared, adding:

"The assumption is that he had received his orders before he went to Paris."

PINNED BLAME

In an opening statement, Herter pinned all blame for the summit collapse on Soviet Premier Khrushchev and said the United States and its allies must be ready "to withstand aggressive pressure, not only in Berlin but also elsewhere."

Herter said that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's power in Russia may have been "seriously undermined" by the American spy-plane incident.

TIMING DEFENDED

He defended the timing of the flight over Russia on the eve of the Paris conference as a "sound decision." He said weather conditions later in the year would have prevented high-altitude aerial photography and thus denied the United States "very important" intelligence information.

Herter said that despite Khrushchev's "brutal decision" to disrupt the summit meeting, he saw no signs of any "radical alteration" in Soviet policy toward the West. But he said this always could change suddenly and that the Soviets definitely would continue their propaganda efforts to split the Western alliance.

He also said the United States "should be very alert" to the possibility of Red China creating some diversionary crisis. He said under questioning in this connection that the United States does not have any late information on what, if any, progress the Communist Chinese may be making in developing nuclear weapons.

Herter acknowledged that President Eisenhower broke a worldwide precedent for heads of state in deciding to admit the aerial spy activities over Russia and to assume personal responsibility for them. He said Eisenhower took this step, in part, to expose to the world the "danger of surprise attack" from secrecy-shrouded Russia.

End Military Hardware Urges Lions' Leader

VANCOUVER (CP)—The immediate past president of Lions' International called Friday night for world peace and the abolishment of "military hardware."

Dudley Simms of Charlottetown, N.W., told a convention audience, "how much more effective and important this is than the mad race of governments to build implements of destruction to annihilate mankind."

Martin Reports:

Defective Boy Wasn't Beaten

VANCOUVER (CP)—Investigation into injuries to a 14-year-old boy at Woodlands School don't back his story that he was beaten, Health Minister Martin said Friday.

"I looked into it," he said. "There is every evidence that the boy had fallen."

Father of the boy, Alex Olson of North Surrey, says he is not satisfied with the report. He will hire a lawyer to go further into the matter.

He said he applied to take his son Lester home from the government school for defective children for the Victoria Day weekend. When the application was denied, he went to the school.

He found his son with two black eyes, a tooth driven through his lip and broken off and a large bump on his head. The injuries had been received a week previously. Parents had not been notified, Olson said.

Lester said he had been beaten and choked in a washroom by a 21-year-old inmate of the school.

Mail Loss 'Subsidy'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) charged Friday ordinary citizens subsidize the postal service for commercial organizations which flood house-holders with advertising.

Winch reminded Postmaster-General Hamilton in the Commons that the department lost $21,690,000 last year on handling newspapers and periodicals.

"Why should first-class ordinary mail or domestic air mail have to assume a subsidy to private commercial firms?" Winch asked.

Hamilton said the government had a responsibility "to enable the free and easy flow of information to all people in this country."

"The minister cannot get away with that type of fast answer on this important subject," Winch replied.

City Magistrate Never Forgets

Magistrate William Ostler is a man with a memory. Yesterday he heard a man plead guilty of speeding, then heard a rather long record including previous speeding charges, the latest last March. The magistrate fined the man and suspended his licence. "Your honor," said accused, "could I keep my licence for business purposes?" "What is your business?" the magistrate asked—and the man told him. Didn't you ask me the same thing in March?" Magistrate Ostler asked. "Yes, your honor," was the reply. "Licence suspended," was the decree.

Upset in Turkey

THE army coup in Turkey which displaced the Menderes government appears to have been accomplished without bloodshed. General Cemal Gursel, who led the revolt, has detained President Boyar and deposed the Menderes regime of the Democratic Party. At the same time, the army leader has disclaimed any intention of setting up junta rule, and pledges a general election under constitutional forms to re-establish governance in the country. The background for the revolt included violent student demonstrations against the Menderes regime, and growing public resentment against assertedly repressive measures akin to a state of martial law.

Observers in Turkey had for some time been warning of a state of unrest that presaged impending trouble. The Democratic Party in power had won three elections in a row, continued the modernization program, and set about ambitious plans for new public buildings, highways and other improvements. They were opposed by the Republican Peoples' Party, organized under former president Ismet Inonu, once a military dictator who strangely enough brought about the first free elections in 1950, and who still is a power in the land. In recent weeks Inonu had spoken out against army intervention. The precipitating act seems to have stemmed from the increasing rigors of the Menderes government.

While the next few days should indicate the course that General Gursel and his supporters in the successful revolt will follow, he himself has declared that a free election at the earliest possible time is what will now be sought; and also that Turkey will remain loyal to the West and its defensive organizations. If that is so, the revolt in Turkey though confused in its events, may prove moderate in tone and controlled in its actions.

The City's Business

SURPRISINGLY, for there are those on the aldermanic board who should know better, the city council has passed its secrecy bylaw. There may be polemics about the extent of the "secrecy" but the inference is clear in the remarks of Alderman McLean—the chief proponent of the bylaw—that the bylaw would give committees power "to regulate publicity." It is not difficult to deduce what this could mean.

It is strange that a newcomer to civic business should seek so strenuously to alter a pattern which has given satisfaction and induced Alderman Dowell—an opponent of any secret aldermanic discussion—to state that since Mayor Scurrah has been in office "relations with the papers and the public have never been at such a high level." Alderman McLean may not have realized that in entering civic politics he became liable to a searching responsibility for the conduct of public business.

This newspaper takes strong exception to his assertion that in reporting civic business it slants, distorts and colors its news stories. That is nonsense. The senior reporter who regularly covers the city hall for this newspaper is an individual of the highest personal qualifications and character, with long experience in civic matters. His integrity is unquestioned. Nor has the Colonist been published continuously in this city for a century on the basis of sensational stories that "will sell newspapers." The interests of the community are no less important to this newspaper than they are to Alderman McLean.

What a newspaper does, however, even if some aldermen do not seem to recognize this—possibly because every word they utter is not necessarily the height of absolute wisdom and they must prefer only to appear as infallible—is to guard the public in the conduct of its affairs. A city council's business—all of it—is public business, and the public is dependent on the press for information as to how that business is carried on.

Mayor Scurrah has wisely vetoed the secrecy bylaw for 30 days; it is to be hoped that by then wiser counsels on the aldermanic board will prevail.

Blow to Symphony

FROM opposite sides of the continent there was ominous news for supporters of symphony during the past few days. In Seattle there was anxiety over the possibility that the Seattle Symphony Orchestra would have to cancel its 1960-61 concert season because of a dispute with the musicians' union. From Ottawa the news was worse. Refusal of the American Federation of Musicians, an organization controlled from the United States, to accept what must strike most people as a generous wage offer had resulted in the extinction of the Ottawa Philharmonic Orchestra. Thus Canada's capital city, the seat also of the Canada Council, is left without a symphony orchestra.

The cause of this regrettable decision rests between the parent society and the union, whose Ottawa local no doubt is within its legal rights in refusing the wage scale offered. Nevertheless it is worthy of note that the scale rejected ranged from $75 basic wages to $100 for a 21-hour week; and that the union's demand was for $90 to $150 for an 18-hour week, which works out at from $5 to more than $8 an hour. Rather than accept anything less for professional musicians' contribution to the cultural life of the city the union was willing to see their jobs extinguished and symphony in Ottawa brought to an end.

Added to this there was the ingratitude manifested in the remark of the union's representative that "if the Philharmonic is going to fold it is the fault of the directors, not the union." We know nothing of the directors of the Ottawa society, but we do know that the directors of symphony societies everywhere are men and women dedicated to a splendid purpose, who labor countless hours throughout the year—not just during the concert season—to keep their orchestra alive. For this they receive no reward other than that which comes from serving one's community; and often very little thanks.

Interpreting the News

Soviet Preparations

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some American analysts of Soviet affairs believe that discontinuance of U.S. spy flights over Russia could deprive the Strategic Air Command of its most reliable intelligence source.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev indicated his intention, more than four months ago, of dispersing Russia's missile bases. In a speech to the Supreme Soviet on Jan. 14 he said:

"The territory of our country is immense. We have the possibility of dispersing our rocket facilities, and camouflaging them well..."

H. S. Dinerstein, rated an authority of Soviet affairs, describes this speech in a research paper as representing "a culminating point in Soviet strategic thinking."

Dinerstein's paper has just become available. His analysis, written three months before the U-2 spy plane incident, aroused added interest in the light of events at the Paris summit meeting.

Dinerstein's thesis that Khrushchev's speech first elevated the ballistic missile with the nuclear warhead to the status of the supreme weapon coincides with the belief of some other Soviet experts.

These analysts said some time ago that the reason for Khrushchev's campaign against aerial espionage was that Russia plans to install the bulk of their intercontinental and intermediate, ballistic missile bases during the next six to nine months.

More flights could be the best way of locating such bases, they suggest.

The U-2 had served as one of the "eyes" of SAC for four years and it was of vital importance for Russia to knock out this eye, permanently or temporarily, if it were to go ahead with construction of new bases, they say.

Should the United States observe the pledge President Eisenhower made and call off the U-2 flights, there could be a dangerous gap in U.S. intelligence, these analysts warn. The Samos spy satellite will not be ready to replace the U-2 for about three years.

"Did you fellows get all the news from Paris?"

Much To Learn

Diplomacy And Spying

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, from London

THE great lesson of the failure to reach the summit is the immaturity of United States diplomacy.

Now if this had been a British airplane and please note that everyone here has refused to deny that British airplanes may have done this sort of thing—the technique would have been so very different. There is not the slightest doubt that the Foreign Office would deny any knowledge of the aircraft concerned (which would be also, truly true—the last person any service chief talks to is the foreign office unless he wants to be sure of something getting around the embassies of the world).

The Royal Air Force would possibly admit that the aircraft shot down over Russia sounded from the Russian description as though it was the one stolen from Upper Wallop air station two days earlier.

If it was that plane it would not have any markings on it because it was being overhauled at the time of the theft and the RAF markings had not been repainted on it. The pilot had already been posted AWL and his record was being examined by intelligence. He had in fact been grounded because his loyalty was suspect. He was known to have communist sympathies. It was quite possible that he had taken the airplane with a view to seeking political asylum in Russia. It had also been noted that a revolver was missing from the armory, also a self-destruction kit which was used by pilots reconnoitering cannibal territories to save them from the stew pot.

The cameras were on board because the plane had just returned from an aerial survey of Bechuanaland and if there were any photographs of Russian airfields they must have been taken by the deflected gentleman to show the Russians how vulnerable they were with a view to proving his pro-Russian sympathies. If in fact they had got the pilot the RAF hoped that he would be dealt with severely; and in any case, an air ministry spokesman would point out, if the pilot ever returned to Britain he would be tried by court-martial.

After that statement the foreign office would undoubtedly issue a strongly-worded note demanding the return of the pilot so he could stand trial. The pilot, in turn, would tell the Russians that the only hope of the world was if everyone defected to Russia.

Now that sort of thing is mature diplomacy. What could poor old Khrushchev do? Even Russia cannot damn a nation because it has a crackpot. The apology is given, punishment is promised, and the poor old pilot is proclaimed as a friend of all the Russians. If Russia still proclaimed that he was a spy we would urge them to deal with him; alternatively, send him back so that he can be put in the glasshouse. He probably would be anyway, for being such a clot as to get caught.

American immaturity in these things makes us despair. Uncle Sam has got to grow up and realize that espionage is not diplomacy—that Russia is just as good at it and probably better than he is but doesn't brag about it.

Reports from Ottawa

THE cult of the personal press agent is growing in Ottawa—which perhaps isn't to be wondered at as the time for an election nears.

Obviously the Conservative ministers are concerned about their relations with the working press—as well they might be. They took office with much good will from parliamentary reporters. Then the chill set in—resentment by ministers of "unfriendly" stories; resentment by reporters of unkept promises about press conferences, of snubs, of favoritism towards Tory reporters, of complaints about being "misquoted."

Saturday Night reported recently that Diefenbaker's aides tipped the press corps that the PM was disappointed that so few reporters wanted to go to Mexico with him at Easter. Saturday Night said the PM's aides all but pleaded for volunteers.

The story is a hoax. It was planted by a reporter annoyed by the way Diefenbaker hand-picks the reporters who accompany him on junkets. A similar prank by a disgruntled press man was the posting of a bulletin calling for volunteers to accompany Transport Minister Hees on a tour of European airports—London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Rome—at government expense. There was no such tour.

Soon after taking office Diefenbaker hired the president of the Parliamentary Press Gallery as his press secretary. But Diefenbaker permitted him to be little more than a messenger boy, and on Feb. 1 he quit. No successor has yet been named.

The Diefenbaker temperament apparently will not permit the PM to accept public relations advice from an underling. He will from Alister Grosart, the professional PR man who is the Tory party's national director, but Grosart cannot be continually at his elbow.

Finance Minister Fleming's experience with a personal press agent has been happier. The press image of Fleming has improved remarkably since Grey Hamilton left the Toronto Globe & Mail and devoted himself to smoothing contacts between his boss and the press.

George Hees' press relations are good, despite the European junket hoax. An important reason is his executive assistant, Mel Jack, a professional PR man before he went into politics.

Latest minister to seek professional help in press relations is Immigration Minister Fairclough. His press agent is Kingsley Brown, recently of the Hamilton Spectator, a veteran newspaperman who has been managing editor of papers in Hamilton and Saint John, N.B.

Press criticism of Mrs. Fairclough over such matters as the "white tie" invitations to the opening of the National Gallery, and disturbing decisions on immigration cases like the Rebrin case, probably created Brown's job. By that criterion the next minister to hire a press agent might well be Trade Minister Churchill. He has not won press friends or sympathy with his protests about being "misquoted."

These press experts are in addition to public relations staffs of government departments—staffs that have increased greatly in the last three years despite pre-1957 Tory criticism of the "waste and extravagance" represented by the Liberal government's public relations officers.

Liberal leader Pearson also has his public relations advisor, Larry Jones.

Like it or not, these modern counterparts of the old-time circus press agent are here to stay.

And somebody has to pay their salaries. Know who? You.

The Packback

Trust Betrayed

By GREGORY CLARK

IT is at this season the young are born in the wild world, both bird and beast. Any day now you might be walking a path or driving a back road and see the most charming spectacle in the world: a little knock-kneed fawn, spotted as though to make it more infantile, large ears laid back in wonder, eyes so big and blank with innocence they seem blind. And it would be hard for you to pass it by. You are instinctively drawn to it. It seems lost.

But, of course, it isn't lost. Its mother, caught unawares by you, has bounded into the underbrush a few yards away. Full of the lawful terror she should feel towards you, the mother watches. To her, you are a member of the most dread species on earth. You are one of those animals that kill their own kind. Will you spare this little gangling fawn? Spare it. Spare all the young of every creature at this season of the year, when so many tragic pets are made by man and his as yet unbody-minded children. For all you do by making a pet of a wild creature is deprive it of its rightful fear of man.

Five months from now, when you have abandoned it back into the wilds, as abandon it you will at summer's end, it will walk with trust into the first gun, first trap, first deadfall.

Look at the lovely wild if you wish. But spare it your monstrous affection.

Self-Interest

WHAT sort of people, we wonder, live in the towns in Canada's national parks? According to the report prepared by the Institute of Local Government at Queen's University, there is not enough demand by park town residents for local self-government to justify any steps toward instituting it.

Not too many years ago local self-government would have been a primary demand of any town or village which did not have it. But not now, or at least not in park towns, apparently. Of course, as park officials point out, self-government would likely result in higher costs to residents.

Self-interest seems to come before self-government in the case of park town residents.

Washington Angle

Ominous Void

By MARQUIS CHILDS

AS the four heads of government went their separate ways in the aftermath of the explosion at the summit—or just below it—one conclusion was inescapable. They are all without exception reduced in stature.

Each nation has begun in its own way to develop a rationalization, a justification, for what happened and for the role that the nation's leader played or failed to play. While this may do for national consumption, to assuage wounded pride and salve hurt feelings, it is not good enough.

There is a great void, a vast and somewhat ominous emptiness, in which only a few persons can join the chorus of "I told you so." Among them are critics such as former Secretary of State Dean Acheson who have consistently scorned summitry as an exercise opening the way to precisely the kind of storm to which President Eisenhower was subjected and to a painful disillusion putting the cause of peace back to a new low. But even these critics could hardly have foreseen the incident of the espionage plane and its effect on any slightest chance of success at the summit.

It is too early to know how each of the four so dissimilar men will react in the void that has been created. President Eisenhower will go on travelling, receiving as in Portugal the massive acclaim that has come to mean much to him. It is probable that his Asian tour will be extended to take in Formosa, the Philippines, Thailand and other beneficiaries of American aid.

His far-flung travels have in some instances, notably India, where there has been an effective follow-up, been of great value. But, as in Latin America, their usefulness is questionable, since they stir expectations that cannot or will not be fulfilled. And as Eisenhower reaches the end of his authority these ceremonial progresses with all the appurtenances of vast, cheering crowds and triumphal archways have less and less value.

It was characteristic that Prime Minister Macmillan should express to those who talked with him about the future, a concern for Eisenhower and what it had meant to him to take such insults from Khrushchev. After all, as the prime minister remarked with the urbanity, the worldliness, that is his hallmark, a president of the United States, and particularly this president, "is unaccustomed to the kind of rough exchange that is the staple of life for those of us who grow up in the House of Commons." How will he react? What will he do?

The Macmillan watchword is restraint, caution, wait and see. Above all, no hasty action from the West, since there is no evidence that the Communist line out of Moscow is about to undergo a radical shift. The disillusion is almost greater for Macmillan than for Eisenhower since he had built his hopes higher, and certainly just prior to the U-2 he had given clear indication that he was prepared to go much further in a temporary solution for Berlin than France or the United States.

On the day that the heads of government left Paris for home the leading commentator on the state-owned radio said with something like proud complacency that the U-2 proved the wisdom of the de Gaulle policy of refusing to submit control of France's fleet and air force to NATO. This was an example of what could happen if one's allies were not consulted. That is, of course, untrue, since, no matter what the agreed extent of consultation, such an act as the espionage flight would never have come within its compass.

If this is to be the line, then de Gaulle's nationalism and his determination to build, regardless of cost, an independent nuclear deterrent for France is reinforced. The tragic folly of that course—its impossibility in relation to French resources—has been evident enough to others, but within the country it is given a glowing color by the dream of grandeur of which de Gaulle is both symbol and progenitor.

As for the fourth man, we know too well what his course is to be. It is to cause the utmost trouble and uncertainty in the West without provoking a war. Or, at any rate, the assumption despite the summit explosion is still that Khrushchev wants to stop short of war.

If the recent past is a precedent, the tragedy will be to find the West in the newly-created void reacting to the actions of the Communist leader. Except for piecemeal instances, some of them important enough, the West has not taken a major initiative since the Marshall Plan. That fact should sober even the hottest of hot-heads who now seem determined to react with a bigger and bigger chip on the shoulder to the Russian aggressive-ness.

The Marshall Plan saved Western Europe from communism and it has stood through the years as a symbol of what the West can do in unity. It is a lesson, a profoundly important example, if anyone is in the mood to discover what to do in a void.

Letters to the Editor

Business in Secret

To my way of thinking the public has the right to know what is going on in our city hall, and the only way is via the press. But I think there should be a bylaw that if proven that a reporter is not correct in his report and misinforms the public, such reporter should be punished according to the bylaw.

To have a city government pass any bylaw and the public not to know anything about it is like living next door to dictation and this is not what we want in our beautiful Victoria.

Troublesome Minority

Re leash law in Saanich and Mr. Wilkinson's letter: A law requiring dogs be run on a wire not less than 30 feet in length, on a six foot leash and on the owner's premises, has been found workable and satisfactory in other cities.

Of course "owners who short-tie their animals, leave them without food and water or shelter" should be prosecuted by the SPCA. The sooner the better. Should they be permitted to have them at all? Isn't that the business of the SPCA? They are a very small minority of the dog owners.

I urge all citizens of Saanich who have been overrun with dogs—lost pets to manhandling dogs, had their lawns and gardens wrecked, seen small children terrified by dogs roaming streets and beaches, to write to the Saanich council before June 6 and say: "Curb the dogs of this small minority."

Get Out of NATO, NORAD Cut Arms, Canada Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada can make a useful contribution to world peace only by abandoning most of her military spending, says a University of British Columbia philosophy professor.

Dr. Peter Kennant also said that Canada should drop out of NATO and NORAD.

"Canada spends about $1,800,000,000 on defence and only $67,000,000 on foreign aid," he said. "The U.S. spends the amount of our defence budget on non-military foreign aid alone."

Turks Thought Otherwise

I'll Never Be An Ex-Premier

Thin-Skinned Menderes Harshly Hit Critics

By ALLAN JACKS

ROME (AP)—Adnan Menderes, deposed 61-year-old premier of Turkey, once was widely quoted as saying: "I will never be a former premier."

Menderes had been in office for 10 years and during the last five gave every evidence of intending to stay there until Friday's coup by the tough Turkish army.

The army took over after a series of student demonstrations against Menderes, his Turkey's first free, two-party ruling Democrat party and their increasingly restrictive measures against the political opposition and the press. In recent years the Menderes government also had

Two-Party Democracy

It was Inonu, now 76, who made the election possible. The Democrat party was founded on Inonu's instruction to oppose his own party and bring two-party democracy to Turkey.

Menderes was one of the founders of the Democrats, along with Celal Bayar, present president of the republic, and Refik Koralan, president of Turkey's one-house parliament, the grand national assembly.

Ironically, Menderes, Bayar and their party came to power on a platform opposing the same kind of restrictive measures that they themselves began to take five years later.

Menderes campaigned in 1950 against a strict press law that had put a number of Turkish journalists in jail. Three newspaper men were elected to parliament on the Democrat ticket while in jail.

After election Menderes freed them and other journalists and abolished the press law.

But in 1955 Menderes' Turkey began to drift into serious economic difficulty, and the Turkish press turned from fairly general support for Menderes' policies to criticism.

Prison for Journalists

Thin-skinned to criticism of any kind, the premier reacted harshly. His big majority in parliament rushed through a press law more severe than the one he had abolished.

Among other things, it provided prison terms for journalists who "undermined the prestige or position of the government or its leaders."

Scores of newspapermen have been arrested under the law. Many of them have been indicted and sent to prison.

Since 1955 economic conditions have improved in Turkey, partially due to U.S. and world bank loans. But criticism of Menderes' economic policies turned to criticism — in the press and by Inonu's Republicans — of the government's restrictive measures, often harshly enforced.

Menderes fought back a month ago by banning all normal political activity and establishing a parliamentary committee to investigate "unpatriotic activity" of the opposition Republicans.

This brought on the student demonstrations.

Haddon Wins RCN Posts

Capt. Philip Edward Haddon of Victoria was named yesterday to a new appointment as executive officer of HMCS Niobe, the RCN establishment in London.

He will also become chief staff officer to the naval member Canadian joint staff, London, and Canadian naval member to the military agency for standardization.

Capt. Haddon succeeds Capt. Thomas Charles Pullen of Oakville, Ont., named commanding officer of HMCS Shearwater, naval air station near Dartmouth, N.S., effective July 25.

Capt. Pullen succeeds Capt. Robert Philip Welland of Victoria and Halifax, appointed to the staff of the assistant chief of naval staff (air and warfare), effective Aug. 1.

"Our energies should go into the development of community facilities where patients can be treated locally by persons who will look after them during the whole treatment period."

Decentralization of mental health treatment centres and establishment of treatment units on a community basis was recommended last night by Dr. James Tyhurst.

The UBC professor of psychiatry spoke at a meeting of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, which is holding a conference on rehabilitation of discharged mental patients.

Rehabilitation is only one phase of the overall treatment program which can be more effectively carried out in a patient's own community rather than in a distant isolated mental hospital, he said.

"It is impossible to maintain continuity of care when the treatment centre is 400 miles away from the community where the patient lives," he added.

Victoria Man Top Speaker For Jaycees

PORT ALBERT — Al Wilson of Victoria, representing Vancouver Island district, won the effective speaking contest at the 24th annual convention of B.C. Youth Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Mr. Wilson will speak for the B.C. Youth region in western finals to be held early in June at Burnaby.

The speaking contest followed a civic dinner at which Mayor Loran Jordan welcomed to the 300 Jaycee and Jaycee-ette delegates in Alberni Athletic Hall.

Chisholm to Pupils:

War, Suicide Just the Same

Future of the world rests in the hands of the present generation, Dr. Brock Chisholm, former head of the World Health Organization, told the graduating class of 41 students at Belmont High School last night.

"This is the first human generation that bears a conscious power over continuing human evolution," he said.

"The most this generation can do for its children... is try to lead them to a degree of maturity not possessed by us."

"The worst thing that could happen to the next generation is that they might turn out to be like us."

War is synonymous with suicide, Dr. Chisholm said. The old concept of survival by groups is no more.

"Originally it was one family against another, and then tribes, cities, states, principalities, small kingdoms and so on."

"Now, for the first time in history the unit for survival has become the whole human race."

The pattern of the future of the world cannot be learned by studying the past, he said. "That means that we of this generation must think. That is not easy."

"Education starts at birth and should go on until death. But to do that we must be able to have an open mind and be able to revise everything."

The students, guests of the school board, chose an Oriental theme for 1960.

The meeting, the first of the current election campaign to bring together the leaders of the four major parties, began with enthusiastic applause when Premier T. C. Douglas stood up to speak and rapidly disintegrated into jeers, heckling, boos and shouts, regardless of who was on his feet.

About 4,000 persons attended the rally in the 10,500-seat arena.

Give Chiefs Incentive, Pay Cowichan Indian Urges

DUNCAN — A shaggy-browed, ex-Indian chief said yesterday the interests of the people would be better served if chiefs got paid.

In B.C. chiefs get "nothing," while chiefs in Saskatchewan get $25 and are asking for $350 a month.

"I don't think it's unreasonable to ask for something for a man's time and to pay some of the cost that is involved for a chief," said Elwood Modeste, 58, of Mission Road. He was head of the Cowichan band, biggest in B.C., for four years.

"The only thing I got out of it was a trip to Ottawa," he said. He represented B.C. Indians on Oct. 13, 1957, when he met Queen Elizabeth.

He made the comments after being asked to compare the office here with that of other provinces.

"There's not a chief that I know of in the province that gets a thing," he said. It causes quite a hardship on many of the chiefs who have a hard enough time making a living while not holding office.

That is the big difference between treaty and non-treaty Indians, he said. B.C. Indians don't have a treaty with the government. Treaty chiefs in Saskatchewan get $25 a year.

The Federation of Saskatchewan Indians is asking for $350 a month as well as $500 a year expenses and a brass button suit.

"A little pay would give more incentive and would make it possible for chiefs to do more for the band," he said.

"There is a lot of worry attached to being chief," he said. Louise Underwood is the new chief here. Mr. Modeste was not nominated to run for a third term. "Problems come at you from all sides," he said. "It is quite a relief (not holding office) after being bothered so much."

COWICHAN LAKE — Cowichan Lake is leading in its contributions toward the building fund of the university for Victoria.

More than $5,000 has been pledged, bringing the Cowichan total to more than $7,000.

DUNCAN — A shaggy-browed, ex-Indian chief said yesterday the interests of the people would be better served if chiefs got paid.

In B.C. chiefs get "nothing," while chiefs in Saskatchewan get $25 and are asking for $350 a month.

"I don't think it's unreasonable to ask for something for a man's time and to pay some of the cost that is involved for a chief," said Elwood Modeste, 58, of Mission Road. He was head of the Cowichan band, biggest in B.C., for four years.

"The only thing I got out of it was a trip to Ottawa," he said. He represented B.C. Indians on Oct. 13, 1957, when he met Queen Elizabeth.

He made the comments after being asked to compare the office here with that of other provinces.

"There's not a chief that I know of in the province that gets a thing," he said. It causes quite a hardship on many of the chiefs who have a hard enough time making a living while not holding office.

That is the big difference between treaty and non-treaty Indians, he said. B.C. Indians don't have a treaty with the government. Treaty chiefs in Saskatchewan get $25 a year.

The Federation of Saskatchewan Indians is asking for $350 a month as well as $500 a year expenses and a brass button suit.

"A little pay would give more incentive and would make it possible for chiefs to do more for the band," he said.

"There is a lot of worry attached to being chief," he said. Louise Underwood is the new chief here. Mr. Modeste was not nominated to run for a third term. "Problems come at you from all sides," he said. "It is quite a relief (not holding office) after being bothered so much."

COWICHAN LAKE — Cowichan Lake is leading in its contributions toward the building fund of the university for Victoria.

More than $5,000 has been pledged, bringing the Cowichan total to more than $7,000.

Minus Signs Predominate At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market traded lower on a board front and brokers were hard-pressed to find a plus sign.

Refining oils and pipelines were active in the industrial decline, led lower by Alberta Gas with a drop of 1/2 at 20 1/2.

Steels, too, took a beating.

Papers, which gained strongly throughout the week, closed on a weaker note.

Mining Corporation of Canada led mines down with a bump.

Hollinger gained 1/4 at 24 1/4, while western oils presented, for a change, a brighter picture. Calgary and Edmonton moved ahead 1/4 at 14 1/4. Home B was up 20 cents at 79 and Canadian Husky gained 10 cents at $5.85.

IAC Strengthens

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges closed fractionally lower in light trading.

Shawinigan A led the markets lower, down 1 1/4 at 28 1/4. Canadian International Power dropped 1/2 at 15 1/2. B. Power fell 1/2 at 31 1/2 and Imperial Oil lost 1/2 at 31 1/2.

On the winning side, Industrial Acceptance Corp. advanced 1/2 to 38 1/2. Bathurst Power and Paper B added 1/2 at 32. Canadian Aviation Electronics rose 1/2 to 19 1/2 and Dupont Freres climbed 1/2 to 7 1/2.

In a quiet western oil section, Home Oil A declined 35 cents to $8.45.

Industrial Gains

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks advanced modestly against a backdrop of narrow price movements and a few group features.

The market made a spirited attempt at a rally during the first hour, but the advance ran out of steam when follow-through support failed to develop. A number of issues closed below their highs and some saw early gains converted into losses.

Industrial stocks closed at 624.78 up 1.99 on gains of more than a point in Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville.

Rails were slightly lower.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal bond market was quiet and unchanged in most sections with some long-term government of Canada bonds and recent provincial issues up 1/2.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was slow with evidence of small export business in flax and barley at the close.

Japan and Norway were listed as buyers of flax while the United Kingdom took parcels of barley. Prices showed narrow fluctuations.

Flax uncovered a few export orders in the form of hedges and also outside selling.

Oats and barley reported some shipping orders. Prices moved in a narrow range. Rye was light in local trading.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Austria 135,000 bushels; United Kingdom 40,000; South Africa 54,000.

NOT SHARED

The weakness in the plywood market so far is not shared by other divisions of the forest industry in B.C. Lumber, pulp and paper sales continue to be fairly good because of export orders.

MONITOR SYSTEMS

The federal trade commission has an elaborate monitoring system which covers radio and television as well as the press and the magazines.

DIVIDEND INCREASED

Canadian Bank of Commerce has stepped up its quarterly dividend payment to 45 cents from 40 cents. It was announced yesterday. The payment will be made Aug. 1.

Big Plywood Surplus May Force Closure

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Stocks are building up so fast in B.C. plywood mills that the possibility of closure or part-time operation is looming as a severe immediate threat to the B.C. employment picture.

Most mills are still operating at full capacity, but sales are slow and prices have dropped to their lowest level since 1946. Lack of new home construction contracts is given as a reason for the non-saleability of plywood.

Plywood will only start moving freely again when home construction gets back to normal, in the opinion of most local plywood firms, and they do not see anything like a new home building boom in the immediate future.

Some local mills are being kept going by the fact that the current wage scale under the IWA agreement plywood workers will have an increase in pay next month.

After that a number of mills are likely to close down for their annual holiday period, but the usual two weeks lay-off is not expected to make much difference to the accumulated stocks of mill warehouses. Thus it is anticipated that the closure in many cases may be extended past the normal vacation period.

The weakness in the plywood market so far is not shared by other divisions of the forest industry in B.C. Lumber, pulp and paper sales continue to be fairly good because of export orders.

The situation in the United States is very similar. In the Pacific Northwest, 58 plywood firms are about to curtail production with between 4,000 and 5,000 men being put out of work.

NEWSPAPERS PRAISED

Canadian and United States daily newspapers in 1959 turned down over $6,000,000 worth of advertising because it was either dishonest, deceptive or in bad taste.

Earl W. Kintner, chairman of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, told members of the Northwest Newspaper Advertising Convention in Victoria yesterday that this was a dramatic demonstration of the exercise of responsibility by most newspapers.

Mr. Kintner heads a commission which in the past two years has tackled the "payola" scandal, and has gone a long way towards stamping out questionable advertising practices.

"Our goal is to stamp out false and misleading advertising regardless of whether the public hears it, sees it, or reads it," said Mr. Kintner.

He said that it was not his desire to recommend further regulations and restrictions on the freedom of advertising, but he warned that if self-policing was not undertaken by advertisers and media such steps might become necessary.

In an interview before his talk, Mr. Kintner said that he had little doubt but that "payola" had seeped over the border into Canada, but he was sure that the scandal was now under control.

The FTC went after the distributors of records and thus got right to the source of the trouble.

MORE STRINGENT

On the whole Mr. Kintner said he believed Canadian regulations regarding advertising were even more stringent than in the United States, but he pointed out that in addition to the advertisers who could be brought to task for breaking the law, there were also those who offended against good taste.

The solution to that problem, Mr. Kintner declared, was to be chiefly in the hands of the newspapers, television and radio stations.

GROCERS TO MEET

The Victoria Community Grocers Co-operative Association is holding its first annual convention in the Empress Hotel Sunday, May 29, with the annual meeting taking place at 3 p.m.

Harry Adams, chairman, reports that in the past two years sales have increased from $750,000 to nearly $2,000,000, and that the association which operates its own wholesale grocery warehouse now consists of 56 independent grocery stores on lower Vancouver Island.

Asthma Cure: Marry!

Court's Prescription Defeats Father

LONDON (AP)—A panel of three magistrates has cleared the way for Gerald Hole to try an unusual cure for asthma: Marriage.

Hole is a 21-year-old bricklayer. His intended is Margaret Trist, 20.

In England, persons under 21 may not marry without the consent of their parents, unless the latter are overruled by a magistrate's court.

Margaret's father, Charles Trist, refused to consent. He did not want a son-in-law with asthma, which Hole admits having, although only slightly. Hole told a Cornwall court he had not lost a day's work in three years. Moreover, he regularly plays rugby.

Mrs. Trist's lawyer said: "We have heard some queer impediments raised by objecting parents, including lack of finance, unsuitability of in-laws and lack of housing."

"Mr. Trist has consistently refused to discuss this matter with Mr. Hole."

"Mr. Hole has thus been unable to explain to Mr. Trist that he has not had an attack since March, 1957."

"My researches show that one medical book even says that marriage can result in a cessation of attacks."

The magistrates agreed that Trist, who failed to appear in court, was being unreasonable. Margaret and Charles walked out of court hand in hand. They said they plan to marry in August, the height of the goldenrod season.

Japanese Surrender 15 Years After War

AGANA, Guam (UPI)—Two Japanese Second World War soldiers surrendered yesterday, 15 years after they took to the jungles when American forces liberated the island.

Bunzo Minagawa and Masahito Ito, both 46, told how they had lived hand-to-mouth since the war, always fearing that they would be killed if they surrendered.

Royal Balladier Comes First In Northwest Handicap Race

VANCOUVER (CP)—and won going away by 1 1/4 lengths.

Drizzling, overcast skies continued to plague exhibition race track Friday but officials managed to run off the $2,000-added Northwest Experimental handicap.

Royal Balladier, a 3-1 shot among the track's top three-year-olds in the race, edged out co-favorites My Boy John and U. N. Mia to win the handicap.

The race had been scheduled for last Saturday but track officials called it off because of rain. The track was muddy again Friday and rain fell occasionally.

Royal Balladier, owned by Dave Diamond of Vancouver, broke up a neck-and-neck battle coming into the stretch

CLINT COURTNEY MODELS 'THE THING'

Baltimore's Weapon Solution to Wilhelm

Something which looks like a cross between a mattress and a butterfly net could, it seems after its first trial, affect the outcome of the American League pennant chase.

Baltimore Orioles unveiled the new weapon yesterday—a huge fabrication which is to

In any event Courtney, handling Wilhelm for the first time, went through the game without being charged with a passed ball. That's quite a feat. In 28 previous innings this season Wilhelm had been charged with four wild pitches and his receivers with 11 passed balls. Both Gus Triandos and Joe Ginsberg had tied the major league record of three passed balls in one inning.

Yesterday, Wilhelm pitched a six-hitter for his second win in four decisions, getting the help he needed when Tony Kubek's error gave Orioles two unearned runs.

Victory boosted Baltimore back into the lead with Chicago White Sox moving up to the idle Cleveland for second place by downing Kansas City, 7-4.

Russ Kemmerer, recently obtained from Washington, was the White Sox hero with five and two-thirds scoreless relief innings.

Catcher Ed Bailey was the chief headline-maker in the National League, clouting a ninth-inning grand-slam home run which gave Cincinnati Reds a 9-5 win over Milwaukee Braves.

Ed Matthews drove in three of the Milwaukee runs with his eighth and ninth homers. St. Louis Cardinals got only six hits but San Francisco Giants kicked in four errors to help in losing a 5-4 decision which cut the Giants lead to one game over Pittsburgh Pirates, rained out yesterday.

Los Angeles Dodgers ran their win streak to five games with a 5-3 conquest of Chicago Cubs in the other game.

Biggest yesterday was a 13:11 catch by N. B. Stokes, who took over fifth place.

Three Stars Shine Brightest In School Track Jamboree

By JIM TANG

Eleanor Whitehead, John Warrington and John Valiant emerged Friday as the three biggest stars of the annual Greater Victoria High Schools track and field meet, which was won, as expected, by Victoria High School.

Each of the three won individual championships and all three turned in standout performances to mark them as among the finest athletes in the history of the event.

Both Miss Whitehead and Valiant smashed two meet records while Warrington, a smooth, powerful sprinter who competed in the junior division, left no doubts about his potential and his ability to topple a record or two before he graduates from Vic High.

TOP POINT-GETTER

Miss Whitehead proved to be the leading point-getter of the meet, her 18 points being exactly one-third the total for her school, Esquimalt.

She set a senior girls' high jump record and placed second in the broad jump in the field events, which were held Wednesday and Thursday. Yesterday, she showed her heels to the field in the 100 yards and a record-breaking 220 yards with formful running which won both events handsily.

Her time in the 220 was 27.3 seconds, just one-tenth of a second better than the former standard she set last year. She missed the record in the 100 yards—11.6 seconds, set by A. Taylor of Oak Bay in 1948—by three-thirtieths of a second.

OVERPOWERS FIELD

Warrington, who probably missed winning the broad jump because he had to put a hand back to maintain balance on what appeared to be a record-breaking leap, just overpowered his fields in the two junior boys' sprints.

His time of 10.6 seconds for the 100 yards was three-tenths of a second below the junior record set by Bob Hutchison away back in 1947 but it equalled the winning time in the senior 100 yesterday. Warrington missed the 220 yards record of 23.5 seconds by a tenth of a second and his sprint performance was so impressive that, the knowing rate him a chance to become one of the finest runners turned out in the city.

STEALS SHOW

But it was, perhaps, Valiant who stole the show yesterday. A fall youngster with a beautiful stride which could make him a standout half-mile of the future, he had been rated by most as slightly behind John Cliff, his Vic High schoolmate.

But Valiant was to set new meet records for the mile as well as the 800 yards, and then he wound up a day to remember by running the 440 yards anchor lap in the relay to make the difference as Vic High marked up another win.

TERRIFIC PACE

Cliff, trying for a big lead, set a terrific pace in the half-mile which saw the first lap completed in 57 seconds. But Valiant ran smoothly in second place, moved up close half-way through the final lap, and pulled away to win easily in the stretch. His time of 2:01.1 cut exactly five seconds off the old record set in 1949 by P. Matson.

Valiant was unchallenged in the mile, Cliff, who had little left after his big early sprint in the half-mile, dropping out during the second lap. Valiant, 100 yards or more in front, put on a good sprint in the stretch to finish in 4:38, one and eight-tenths seconds better than the old record set by Don Burgess in 1951.

CLEVER RACE

There were other noteworthy performances yesterday, too. And not the least of them was the clever race run by Oak Bay's Ron Gunther in the two-mile event.

Gunther, who was a bit of a dark-horse, saved ground on the rail, as would be said in a horse race, as he lay behind the Vic High pair of Robt. Carlson and favored Alf Lincoln, who took turns setting the pace.

Lincoln couldn't keep up when Gunther made his move on the back stretch of the final lap and the Oak Bay runner was in the clear after disposing of Carlson on the turn. His time of 10:20.2 was less than seven seconds from being a new record.

SENIOR TITLE

Doug Dickie of Oak Bay, who attended Vic High last year, won the senior boys' individual title while Robin Reagan of Vic High and Lynda Smith of Mt. Douglas shared the junior girls' title with 10 points each.

Dickie just made it. He won the shot put on Wednesday and yesterday upset favored Dave Haegert of Vic High in the 440 yards. Added to two fourth-place finishes, it gave him 13 points, one more than Albert Wolters, Vic High field star.

As for the team trophy, Vic High was ahead from the start and kept adding to its lead to finish with 168 1/2 points. Oak events and was particularly dominant in the boys' events, winning 11 of 13 in the senior division and six of eight in the junior division.

It was a different matter, however, in the girls' events, although the champions did win three of six junior events.

Their senior girls managed only one win, a record-breaking toss by Gail Archibald in the discus event.

Eight records were broken, six by Vic High and the other two by Esquimalt's Miss Whitehead.

Speaking Briefly

Paret Clear Winner Of Welter Crown

Benny "Kid" Paret last night became the second Cuban fighter to win the welterweight championship when he won a unanimous decision over defending Don Jordan in a 15-round bout in Las Vegas.

Neither fighter was particularly impressive but the tireless Paret was a clear winner. Jordan started and finished well but was taking the worst of it between the fifth and 14th rounds.

There were no knockdowns. Jordan had a slight cut over an eye and was bleeding slightly at the nose when action ended. Paret was unmarked.

Referee Charlie Randolph scored it 72-65 in the five-point must system. Scores of the judges were 72-67 and 71-68. All cards were altered slightly when Randolph disclosed he had taken a point from Paret for a low blow in the 14th round.

Jordan and Paret have a private, signed agreement calling for a rematch within 90 days.

It was Jordan's third defence since winning the title from Virgil Atkins on Dec. 5, 1958. Jordan was knocked out by Frederic Thompson and outpointed by Candy MacFarlane in his two most recent bouts. Neither was for the title.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES may have got the pennant insurance they needed yesterday when they obtained Wilmer "Vagabond" Mizell, veteran southpaw, from St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates gave up a pitcher to be named later and Julian Javier, a second baseman who has been playing with Columbus of the American Association. Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe has been named president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. He succeeds Gordon Stokes, who has been appointed secretary-manager. Sacramento State College yesterday became the second U.S. college to drop boxing as a major sport. Portland Beavers of the Coast baseball league have purchased outfielder Bill Wilson from Tacoma and pitcher Vito Valentini from Miami and handed releases to infielder Jack Bloomfield and pitcher Duane Pillette. Chatham Maroons, 1960 Allan Cup winners, want to pass up a chance to play in the 1961 world hockey championships for a tour of Russia.

BILLY MOSIENKO has resigned as coach of the Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League due to business pressures after completing last season for Alf Pike when the latter took over as coach of New York Rangers. Veteran goalkeeper Alf Rollins is among those mentioned as a possible successor.

JAMES JOSEPH CONROY, who will qualify as a Canadian because he was born in Vancouver, has been signed by Ottawa Rough Riders. He is a two-way back who played last season with University of Southern California. Toronto Argos yesterday signed their 23rd import—Don Olson, 235-pound guard from the University of Nebraska. Halfback Hal Ward, a halfback who transferred to Orange State College (Calif.) last year, has been signed by Saskatchewan Roughriders. Also signed by the Regina club was Leonard King, a halfback with Washington Redskins of the National Football League. pro-golfer Ed "Forky" Oliver has undergone a serious abdominal operation. He is listed in "good" condition.

DAVE JENKINS, men's Olympic figure-skating champion, has turned professional and will appear with Ice Follies. veteran-catcher Jim Hegan, who was released by San Francisco Giants last fall, will play for Chicago Cubs.

In Amateur Final

Favorite Joe Carr Against Darkhorse

PORTURUSH, Northern 36-hole semi-final matches Ireland (CP)—Favorite Joe Carr of the British Amateur Golf of Carr of Ireland and dark horse Bob Cochran of the United States Friday won two down at the end of 18 uphill battles in gruelling holes but played near-perfect golf over the final 18 holes for their victories.

Carr defeated Jimmy Walker of Scotland two up and Cochran eased past Gordon Huddy of England by winning the 38th hole after they had finished the regulation 36 all square.

The 47-year-old American fought from behind all day against his 29-year-old opponent. Cochran never was ahead until he won out on the second extra hole.

BIRDIES 38th

After they halved the first extra hole with par 18, Cochran won the 38th with a birdie four to Huddy's par.

Cochran fell behind at the 31st hole in the morning 18-hole round. After falling three holes behind, the American finally squared the match on the 28th hole.

Cochran lost the 31st and 33rd holes to trail again, but once more the scrappy American rallied. He won the 34th and 35th holes to level the match and halved the 36th, sending the match into extra holes.

The 37-year-old Carr squared the match on the 27th, where he holed a pitch shot from 30 feet.

SQUARE AT 30

Carr went one up at the 28th, but it was all square again after the 30th, where Carr took a five.

The hole that killed Walker was the 34th. He was on the green and about 30 feet from the hole in two. Then he three-putted and Carr, who took three to reach the green, grabbed a half.

Walker had bunker trouble at the next hole, finished with a six and Carr was one up. On the 36th Walker bunkered his drive and conceded the hole.

South Africans' Fine Showing Brightens Cricket Predictions

LONDON (Special)—South Africa's tour of England, away to a successful and peaceful start, has heralded what promises to be an outstanding cricket season featured once again by a many-cornered fight for the county championship.

The South Africans, rapidly reaching peak form for the first test match less than two weeks away, have run into little opposition outside the cricket ground. Clear-cut victories over Worcestershire, Derbyshire, Essex and Cambridge University is a fine start for any touring side and one that brightens the prospects for a keenly-contested test series.

Since interest is already mounting for Australia's tour

Lineup Picks Itself

England's test lineup more or less picks itself. Cowdrey, Pullar, Dexter, Subba Row, Barrington, Smith, Parks, Allen, Trueman and Statham are almost certain starters and it remains a matter of filling in the gaps from a number of players who rate test selection. Trueman and Statham will form the core of the attack and Cowdrey will lead the side in place of Peter May, who is recovering from an operation and won't return to action until late in the summer.

A number of the visitors are of unknown quality but in Jackie McGlew, the captain, and Goddard the South Africans have an outstanding opening pair. Neil Adcock, one of the world's fastest bowlers,

Counties Not Forgotten

While the appearance of the South Africans has dominated the scene, the race for the county championship has not been forgotten. Last summer's down-to-the-wire fight involving four teams, won finally by youthful Yorkshire is seen as a good omen for English cricket over the next few years. Few observers envisage the same intense campaigning this summer and yet few can decide on a solid favorite to win the title.

Yorkshire, under a new and for the first time professional captain, Vic Wilson, is regarded as one of the leading contenders along with Lancashire, Gloucestershire, Derbyshire and the incomparable Surrey, which has lost Lock

Whirlwind Start by Sussex

Dexter's success is reflected in the whirlwind start made by the southern county, which finished 15th out of 17 county sides last season. Sussex won four of its first five matches, including a memorable 32-run victory over Yorkshire in which the winners dismissed the champions in the second innings in just under two-and-a-half hours to win with 10 minutes to spare.

While Dexter, scoring runs quickly with fluent strokes off every type of delivery, and his team-mate Parks have been dominating the batsmen, a

His Best-Ever Performance

But the young season's best figures were claimed by Shackleton of Hampshire, who took six wickets without loss off 26 deliveries and nine for 30 runs in one inning. Shackleton, who is nearing 1,500 wickets in first-class cricket, had three times previously come within one wicket of personally dismissing the side but this was his best-ever performance.

Allen of Gloucestershire, developing into one of England's finest all-rounders, also had a fine innings of eight for 41 number of top-line bowlers have been in the news. Les Jackson of Derbyshire, always near the top of the averages at the end of the summer, has had three outstanding matches.

Jackson set down eight Middlesex batsmen for the loss of only 44 first-inning runs, then had match figures of nine for 49 including a spell of six for 23 against Somerset. He followed up in the first inning against Glamorgan by claiming six wickets for 52 runs—five coming in one spell of 13 deliveries for the loss of three runs.

One change this season will be the return of the percentage system of scoring, since nine counties are to play 32 matches, mainly for financial reasons, while the other eight continue to play 28.

Jesse Owens Late

CHICAGO (AP)—Jesse Owens was 35 minutes late for a testimonial luncheon Wednesday—probably his worst beating by the clock since he shattered three world records and tied a fourth 25 years ago in the Big Ten championship track meet at Ann Arbor, Mich.

No Final Decision, Says Bonner

Probe Unlikely in Policeman's Death

No final decision has been reached, but at this stage an official inquiry into circumstances of the killing of a Saanich policeman by an escaped Wilkinson Road mental home patient does not appear necessary, Attorney General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

The attorney general's department has been reviewing a transcript of evidence at a coroner's inquest. The coroner's jury found that Const. Robert Kirby was shot and killed by Raymond Harold when police cornered him in brush near the home, and called for a further inquiry.

Mr. Bonner said yesterday that the escape of the patient "is a matter of internal management which can be easily dealt with by the department (of health)" and that the other circumstance, the unfortunate death of the constable arising from the search, did not appear to necessitate a further inquiry.

"But," he said, "I have not had a final report yet."

Berry-Pickers Needed Soon

Berry-pickers are in demand at the National Employment Office.

First strawberry crop will be ready for picking in the early part of June, an official said yesterday—some time before the main body of students is released from school. And the response so far from pickers has been "normal" but insufficient for anticipated requirements.

60 CENTS CRATE

Strawberry-pickers' pay is 60 cents a crate, or for jam berries, four cents a pound. At that rate, the employment service official said, "some children have earned $5 to $7 in a day."

The NES yesterday reported a gradual drop of about 300 unemployed in May in the Victoria district, but said that "the present total of 4,706 is still about 550 above the number registered a year ago."

PROLONGED SLACK

The total includes 3,088 men and 1,618 women, and the slow improvement in employment conditions this spring is attributed largely to "prolonged slack in the building industry and continued layoffs from the local shipyards."

Gordon Head School Wins

Gordon Head School students yesterday claimed 67½ points to win the track and field meet which was held at Frank Hobbs School.

Other elementary schools participating were Craigflower which chalked up 60 points, Frank Hobbs 55½, Burnside 36 and View Royal 21.

Thousands of spectators are expected to line the Dallas Road waterfront to watch the start of the Swiftsure ocean yacht race at 9 a.m. today.

A good vantage point to watch the 44 competitors jockeying for starting positions off Brodie Ledge is at Holland Point, at the foot of Menzies Street.

Officials last night predicted a fast and exciting contest around the Swiftsure light ship near Cape Flattery and back to Victoria.

CHANGEABLE WINDS

Winds during the race are expected to be changeable—a condition which favors the smaller, handicap boats. But the weather forecast is also for excellent breezes which could bring extremely fast times.

South to southeast winds at 10 to 15 knots are predicted for the start of the race and the bigger yachts are expected to open up a quick lead over the pack. But when the wind veers, as it is expected to do later in the day, the field should close up again.

NOON SUNDAY

Changeable winds are expected to continue through Sunday, when the lead boats are expected to cross the finish line at Ogden Point by noon.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 thronged the Causeway last night to catch a close-up look at the entries. The boats tied up at the floats were introduced in turn over the public address system by W. H. Golby of Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

RECORD ENTRY

Mayor Percy Scourrah welcomed the visiting yachtsmen, noting that the event is growing in popularity every year. The record entry of 41 boats, set last year, was smashed by this year's entry, which includes 18 Canadian yachts.

The mayor had a special word of encouragement for two entries from Royal Victoria Yacht Club, the 26-foot sloop Aida and the 31-foot sloop La Longa II, and for the RCN entry Oriole, a 50-foot ketch.

NON STARTER

One Vancouver boat, the 45-foot sloop Coral Sea II, will be a non-starter after damaging her keel on a rock off Gabriola Island during the crossing of the Georgia Strait yesterday. She is owned by Arthur W. Way of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

MOVED TO LAWN

Spectators moved to the lawn in front of the legislative buildings to watch an impressive sunset ceremony performed by the RCN Pacific Command.

The sailing yacht Black Dog will take official guests to the start and was scheduled to leave the Inner Harbor at 8 a.m.

Running commentary on the progress of the race will be given from the store window of T. Eaton Co. Ltd. at Douglas and View Street. Race information can be had by phoning the RVYC number at EV4-5513.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant is expected to leave St. Joseph's Hospital today after recovering from a hernia operation. He will return to his office in the legislative buildings in about a week.

Squadron Leaving Soon

With 180 officer cadets aboard, seven frigates of the Pacific Command's Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron will leave Esquimalt June 20 for a six-week training cruise to Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.

The naval officer cadets, all either first or second-year cadets of the Regular Officer Training Plan, will be divided evenly between the frigates. The cadets are from universities throughout the country and the three Canadian Services Colleges, taking annual summer training.

Ports they will visit include Adak, Alaska, June 27-28; Yokohama, Japan, July 7-11; Midway, July 18-20, and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, July 25-27. The ships will return to Esquimalt at 3 p.m. Aug. 5.

The annual meeting also decided to increase the council's bursary awards by $50 each, to $150. Six awards are given each year—one to each high school in school district 61 and one to Belmont High School.

Selection and presentation of bursaries will be made by the end of September.

Button Draw Gives Wings to Winners

The draw was made by Miss Victoria, Sherrin Molyard.

Second prize, a flight for two to Hawaii with $100 expenses, was won by Craig Andrews, 2324 Trent.

Third prize, a flight to Seattle for two persons with four days' accommodation and $50 expenses, was won by Florence Alberg, 1516 Mount Douglas Cross Road.

Winners of the TAW questionnaire contest, which offers a top prize of $50 and three consolation prizes of $25 each, will be announced today.

All winners will be presented with their prizes at a special ceremony Monday night attended by Mayor Percy Scourrah.

Airport Job In Winter?

Mayor Percy Scourrah has a hunch, he said yesterday, that construction of a new Patricia Bay airport terminal building will be a winter-work project.

A transport department official said earlier in the year a start on construction would be possible this year under a $12,252,000 "planning account" item in 1960-61 federal estimates.

'Mere Sailor' Reviews Army

A crowd of nearly 3,000 yesterday had a rare opportunity to see a senior naval officer review the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, at a trooping of the color ceremony at Work Point Barracks.

Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer Pacific Coast, said in his short address to the troops on parade it was a "signal honor" to the RCN on its 50th anniversary.

"As a mere sailor and an old 'orpheonist,'" the admiral said, "I hesitate to comment on the magnificent ceremony I have witnessed here today."

Admiral Rayner praised the "fine exhibition of military drill" which he said was "in every way worthy of the spirit and great tradition of your regiment."

Policy Switch

Saanich Thwarted Chatterton Says

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton last night blamed an apparent policy switch by the B.C. highways department for disruption of his municipality's 1960 road reconstruction program.

He said Saanich council had expected a provincial grant of $70,000 to match a like sum put up by the municipality for reconstruction of Quadra Street.

Instead it got $27,000, of which $6,000 is earmarked for improvement of the Tillicum bridge.

The confusion arose, the reeve said, when the government indicated it would classify Quadra as a secondary highway, and later referred to it in a letter as a secondary highway.

Where such a classification exists, the province assumes half of the construction costs and 40 per cent of maintenance costs.

But, said the reeve, the department of highways has either failed to give the street secondary highway status or else has changed its cost-sharing policy.

The result, he said, is that Quadra reconstruction won't be finished according to schedule and that needed work on Cloverdale, Reynolds and part of Cedar Hill Cross Road will have to be deferred.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Last year my husband became acquainted with a fast-talking promoter. I was suspicious of the man from the start. He yakked a mile a minute and tried to impress us with how rich he was. My husband had to pick up the dinner check every time we went out because the big-shot never got around to cashing a cheque.

Against my advice my husband gave him $7,000 which was our life's savings. The fast-talker disappeared into thin air and my husband didn't have a single thing down on paper. His Memphis address turned out to be a phony.

This incident has made me very bitter. When I think of all the things I could have bought for myself and the children with $7,000 I burn.

I'm seriously considering putting our three kids into foster homes and taking a course in practical nursing so I can earn my own living and tell him to go his own way.

When I told my husband of my plan he looked at the door and said it wasn't fair to him or the kids. How fair was he to do what he did? I need your advice.—BURNT.

Dear Burnt: What price spite! Isn't it enough that the four-flusher fleeced you out of $7,000? Are you going to let him break up your family, too?

The money is gone. Now forget it. It was foolish of your husband to be taken in like a yokel at a county fair, but it's ancient history now. Stick by the guy. He really needs you now. Forget about a separation, foster homes and the rest of the nonsense. It's times like these that separate the women from the girls.

Dear Ann: I'm 38, well-educated and have never been married. This letter may sound a bit preposterous but I am on the level and need help from an objective person who doesn't know me.

I've always been interested in languages. I enrolled last year in an adult education course. The teacher is a charming, cultured woman in her late 50's. We've grown very fond of each other and our personalities are perfectly attuned.

After a wedding trip to California and Nevada, Mr. and Mrs. Surgenor will take up residence in North Vancouver, B.C.

The bride's travelling costume was a jewel blue silk dress with white accessories and white orchid corsage. The bride's grandfather, Mr. Dickinson, and Mr. Wakefield were among the guests.

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

Reading of the bickering, badgering, animosity and distrust among the leaders of the different countries these days makes me think of the small school boy who was asked by his teacher if he knew the shape of the world. His reply was, "My father says it's in the worst shape it has ever been"—and he certainly had the right answer.

Before someone kicks the soap box from under our feet, I want to tell you of a very delicious dessert, so easy to make and one that fits right in with springtime menus.

FRESH STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM BOMBE

Blend ¼ cup butter melted with 20 graham crackers (1¼ cups). Press the mixture into a 1-quart mixing bowl. Stig 1 cup sliced fresh strawberries into two 1-pint bricks of strawberry ice cream which has been softened and spoon into the crumbled bowl. Refreeze until hard.

To unmold, dip in warm water for a few seconds and run a spatula around sides of bowl. Unmold on platter; decorate with whipped cream and halved strawberries—then keep in freezer until serving time.

I would suggest this as a delicious dessert to serve with a Sunday dinner of stuffed veal shoulder, cranberry jelly, whipped potatoes, buttered broccoli, avocado and endive salad.

Jubilee Guide Camp Opening Tomorrow

The Victoria Girl Guides Jubilee Camp will be officially opened on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. The site of the camp is on the Jordan River about ten miles beyond Sooke.

Patrol leaders and seconders will form a guard of honor for Mrs. A. G. Gosling, who will open the campsite and thank donors; a color party in charge of Mrs. Gilbert Kennedy will break the colors for the first time. Mrs. Gosling, area commissioner in 1959 when the drive for camp funds and camp festival was held, will be introduced by Mrs. Kennedy. Representatives of firms, organizations and individuals who have donated to the new camp will be present.

During the afternoon a campfire will be held with a representative Guide from each district placing a piece of wood on the fire. Mrs. F. Ashford will lead singing. Tea will be served by area local associations. Mrs. Hugh Henderson is in charge of arrangements.

Property was purchased for the Guides by Vic Van Isle Kinsmen who have also contributed $1,500 to the development of the camp.

Under direction of Mrs. J. Chapman, camp shelters have been raised for storage and to house Guides in extreme weather. Shelter and outdoor fireplaces are under construction; two bridges have been built to span the streams; latrines are being put up, land has been cleared and a swimming pool is being constructed in the stream.

First major event at the new camp will be a provincial Jubilee camp at the end of July when two girls from each of the 10 provinces of Canada; two from England and two from the United States will spend two weeks together, under canvas.

The public may attend the official opening on Sunday.

Melons Pose Problem

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Watermelons and muskmelons are notoriously difficult to grow successfully in our cool climate without the help of frames or cloches. I should say, rather, that it is hard to get the fruits to ripen, for the vines grow like crazy, sprawling all over the vegetable plot and occupying half the garden. Seems they need baking heat and breathless, muggy nights to bring the melons along to just the right degree of juicy sweetness.

The plant breeders have been at work on this problem, of course, and have succeeded in developing strains and varieties which are capable of ripening their fruits here. These are mostly small-fruited kinds, such as the muskmelon Far North and the watermelon New Hampshire Midget and Early Canada.

Even with these special strains, though, you are not out of the woods, for one of the most difficult garden techniques to learn is when to recognize when a melon is ripe and ready for picking. Pick it too early and the thing is completely flavorless; leave it on the vine too long, and the melon goes mushy and starts to turn bad.

Old-time gardeners have a dozen different tricks for assessing the ripeness of a melon on the vine—none of them too reliable. One man will claim he can judge the condition of the melon by its fruity fragrance. Another will examine the stem for signs of tiny longitudinal cracks, while a third will thump the melon with his knuckles and judge by the tone, like a doctor percussing a patient's chest. Personally, I've rapped on melons until my knuckles were sore without acquiring much information as to what's going on inside.

At long last, though, it appears that this knotty problem is about to be solved. Word comes from one of the Dominion Experimental Stations on the Prairies that a watermelon has been developed which signals its degree of ripeness by changing color from the conventional green to a golden yellow when ready for picking. This variety has been named Golden Midget, and I understand seeds will be generally available by next spring.

Melons, squash, pumpkins, marrows and cucumbers all carry separate male and female flowers on the same vine, and it is necessary for pollen from the male blossom to reach the organs within the female bloom before any fruit is set. Sometimes, when the insects are staging a sit-down strike, it is necessary to get in there and play Cupid to your vines, giving time a helping hand to consummate their love life.

The trick here is to pick a male flower, strip off its petals, and use the remaining parts to tickle the insides of every female bloom in sight. The sex of the blossom can be determined by a tiny swelling just behind the flower in the females—this is the embryo fruit which will start swelling when pollinated. Another and perhaps easier way is to spray the blossoms with one of the tomato-setting hormone preparations such as Fruiteone or Seed-Less-Set. Only the female blossoms will set fruit—the males can't have babies no matter how you treat them.

I am sometimes asked what happens when you cross-pollinate between two different members of the cucurbit family—say, crossing a pumpkin with a marrow. The answer is—nothing; at least, not to the present generation. These plants will cross-breed quite readily, but you get the same old pumpkin or squash characteristic of the parent vine. If you save the seeds and sow them next year, though, you may get some weird and wonderful fruits, more than likely useless.

Super-Highway

Britain's M1 Accents Safety

By EDNA USHER

In November last year, Britain opened its first super-highway—Motorway 1, an attempt at a road like Canada's new super-highways.

I'll lay a small bet that within two years Britain of the narrow streets and winding lanes will give lessons to highway-experienced Canada, the U.S. and Germany, on how to operate expressways safely.

There's no speed limit on M1; you can go as fast as your car will take you. But 135 cars broke down on the day the Motorway opened and most small-car drivers don't exceed 50.

Vehicles may not stop on the highway or shoulders except in emergency; no stopping for map-reading or leg-stretching.

SOS telephones are placed every mile. Lift the receiver and you talk to police headquarters who are in radio touch with six patrol cars on the 67-mile motorway.

Learner-drivers are not permitted, nor are pedestrians, horse-drawn vehicles, trailers, cycles, motorcycles of less than 50 cc, motorized invalid carriages or vehicles with oversize loads.

Cats-eyes, tiny pieces of glass set in rubber which reflect headlights, demark each of the six lanes. Police say they are useful in fog.

M1 links London with Birmingham and Coventry. First of a circle of expressways which will ring Britain, it is testing engineering and enabling police to compose a series of high-speed driving rules.

The British hope to rectify a few errors.

The road shoulder is only eight feet wide. (Traffic lanes, three in each direction, are 12 feet wide) and the British plan to widen it. They are also experimenting with surfaces, as heavy trucks have been sinking into the shoulder.

A serrated edge may be installed on the highway, to warn drivers that they are running off the road.

Steel anti-lane fencing on test will cut off the two sides of the road, so that incoming headlights will not blind a driver.

Seven people were killed on one 27-mile length of M1 in the first five months operation.

Police have radio contact with the Automobile Association, which has a team of vans and motorcyclists on the motorway, ready to aid stranded drivers. The AA will get gas or oil for drivers, give a tow, diagnose and sometimes cure mechanical trouble.

Most Britons had never driven so far before. In four months, the AA has answered 3,500 breakdowns (most of them through running out of fuel, electrical fault or tire blow-out).

There are no level crossings on it, no way of getting onto it except through the official accesses—if you can find them.

The gas stations sell all brands. One good old English tradition has been hit hard by the motorway—the pub. Authorities have refused permission for restaurants on the motorway to serve liquor or beer.

Lucy's Heart Still Desi's

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Romantic roundelay: Lucille Ball has been dating singer Danny Scholl who, long ago, was engaged to Janet Leigh. But Danny's heart is supposed to be the property of dress designer Marusa . . . and actually Lucille's still belongs to Desi Arnaz whom she telephoned all the time he was in the hospital for a check-up.

Her friends believe Desi could win Lucille back at the drop of a request. But their problems are still unresolved and the redhead is trying to steel herself against the Latin charm which is not consistent, but compelling when used.

Oscar-nominee Susan Kohner and new star George Hamilton have reached the plateau of love where Susan is sending flowers to his mother.

But the raging "romance" between Lucille Ball's neighbor in "I Love Lucy," Vivian Vance, and Phillip Terry, Joan Crawford's ex-mate, is strictly press-agent stuff. The pair, currently touring in "Here Today," like each other. But as of this writing, nothing more.

And, still in the L'Amour department, why was so much fuss made over the report of a romance with Kim Novak and Sammy Davis Junior, when the pint-size entertainer's dates with tall May Britt are completely in the open, with Sammy admitting to a columnist they would wed when her divorce is final?

Evie Johnson may think twice about getting that divorce from Van who stated in Europe that her action was a surprise to him. Evie's name has been dropped from certain party lists and she is experiencing the pangs of not being a movie-star wife.

He paid it in in the past, it's his money and, with taxes as they are today, every little bit helps.

A thought: With Frank Capra remaking his memorable "Lady for a Day," the story which starred May Robson could be rewritten for Shirley Booth, one of the most talented of all actresses, but who doesn't always get the good material she deserves.

Debbie Reynolds, whose pretty face on a fan-magazine cover helps to sell it, is getting fed up with the non-stop stories written about her, and is crying "uncle!" which translated means, no more.

Chatted with Joan Collins and Warren Beatty at the Peggy Wood showing to her friends of "The Story of Ruth," in which Peggy has a starring role as Naomi. "No, we don't have a date for the marriage," said Joan when I congratulated her on the September nuptials. "We'll be engaged for a while."

"You see," said Warren, "I have some wonderful offers for films and the stage after I finish 'Splendor in the Grass' with Natalie Wood." "And," added Joan, "we want time off for a long honeymoon." Warren will have time off in August. Joan will have finished her "Story of Esther"—"It's now 'Esther and the King'." I have a hunch they will stick to the date in September.

At the Miss Woods showing, Jessie Royce Landis and her husband, General Seitz, congratulated Peggy on what the General termed, her "sidesaddle" riding of a donkey in "Ruth." To which Peggy's husband-to-be replied: "Oh, she's a member of the Bethlehem Hunt Club."

Big Four Told

Get Back To Summit

Big Two Slapped By UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations Security Council Friday asked the Big Four to renew the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week and also gave the Soviet Union oblique satisfaction on its complaint of spying by the United States.

The 11-member council adopted by a vote of 9-to-0 with two abstentions a compromise resolution which in part appealed to all UN members to "respect each other's sovereignty."

PACIFY RUSSIA

This clause was seen as an effort to pacify Russian wrath that U.S. spy planes have operated over Soviet territory, resulting in the destruction of a U-2 jet aircraft May 1.

But it fell short of Soviet demands that the U.S. be condemned for aggression by reason of the flights. Russian amendments referring specifically to "incursions by foreign aircraft" were defeated. They were supported only by the Soviet Union and Communist Poland and opposed by six countries while Ceylon, Tunisia and Ecuador abstained.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko scheduled a press conference for this morning but his bearing at the end of Friday's session—the fifth day of an emergency meeting demanded by Russia—indicated that he was not unduly displeased at the resolution that was passed.

The compromise resolution was sponsored by Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia and revised shortly before the vote Friday in a successful attempt to get around a Soviet veto.

NO OPPOSITION

The U.S., Britain, France, Nationalist China, Argentina, Ecuador, Ceylon, Italy and Tunisia voted for the proposal. There were no opposition votes and only the Communist countries abstained.

While the resolution endorsed new meetings among the Big Four, the tenor of charges and counter-charges between the U.S. and Russia indicated that the cold war's chill has not abated.

INCLUDING CANADA

The fact that a compromise resolution was passed at all was seen as a victory for the smaller countries in the Security Council and for others in the UN, including Canada, who have been pleading for moderation since the council began.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Friday sharply assailed Gromyko's charge earlier that President Eisenhower and his government by their policies are placing the world on the brink of war.

Key West, Florida

Mystery 'Object' No Sub

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—A U.S. navy spokesman said last night the navy was "fairly certain" an underwater object earlier contacted by electronics sound was not a submarine.

Capt. Sam Loomis, chief of staff for the commander of the naval base, Key West, said the navy now believed the object was some sort of underwater wreckage.

There had been immediate speculation the ship might be Russian.

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Lucille lashed the island of Luzon today. Unofficial sources reported at least 110 persons were dead or missing in the swirling waters flooding many areas.

CHEERING TURKS HAIL NEW MILITARY CHIEFS

Menderes Arrested May Face Trial

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Jubilant Turks cheered through the streets Friday, hailing military leaders for ousting the dictatorial Premier Adnan Menderes.

Ousted president Celal Bayar attempted to commit suicide when arrested by army officers.

SEVERAL SHOTS

Before Bayar was arrested in the army coup, several shots were heard near the presidential home at Chankaya, near Ankara.

An army lieutenant-colonel with a gun in his hand entered Bayar's room and asked him to surrender, sources said.

Bayar is reported to have met his visitor standing, produced a small pistol and attempted to commit suicide, but the officer intervened.

Bayar's wife and daughter also were reported placed under protective custody.

Menderes and many of his ministers and parliamentary supporters were under arrest following the early-morning coup.

A military spokesman hinted the deposed premier might be put on trial.

PUBLISH AGAIN

The head of the new ruling military group declared he has no desire to become a dictator.

Newspapers silenced by Menderes' increasingly arbitrary regime were told they could resume publishing immediately. A newspaper said all public officials will return to normal duties today. Military commanders were ordered to ensure that the situation in the country remains normal.

POPULACE RELIEVED

Throughout the country the population reacted with relief at the overthrow of Menderes' government. In Istanbul civilians embraced members of the armed forces in the streets. There were tears of joy from youthful demonstrators who had spearheaded protests against the Menderes regime.

There also were cheers when Lt. Gen. Cemal Gursel, an old soldier recently ousted by Menderes as head of the ground forces, announced in a special communique that parliament had been dissolved. New elections were promised "soon."

HEADS GROUP

Gursel heads the group of high-ranking air force, army and navy officers who set up "the Turkish national union committee."

The rebellion that ended the 10-year Menderes' regime after weeks of unrest and demonstrations started in Ankara just after midnight.

War college cadets marched on the official residences of President Celal Bayar and Menderes. There was some gunfire but military authorities denied reports that one cadet was killed.

Trapper 'Victim' Caught

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—RCMP investigating the death of a man whose body was found in a burned trapper's cabin have arrested the man who was first believed to be the victim.

Charles Christian Jonasson, 22, was to appear in court today.

The body found last Monday in a cabin at Barrier Lake has now been identified as Arthur Blomberg, 33, a commercial fisherman.

Starving Chileans Loot, Riot

SANTIAGO (UPI) — New earth tremors jarred Chile yesterday and food riots were reported as America mounted a massive aid program to quake-devastated regions where the dead and missing toll approached the 6,000 mark.

Rioting and knife fights for bread were reported from Valdivia. Unconfirmed but persistent reports circulated that looters had been summarily executed in the Puerto Montt area.

TOLL 5,717

Unofficial compilation of dead and missing placed Chile's week-long quake-tidal wave toll at 5,717. The government figure was 4,468 with 1,898 dead and 2,570 missing. However, officials admitted it was conservative and incomplete.

Five quakes in 24 hours increased the misery and despair in the south where hundreds of thousands were already homeless, many of them almost at the starvation stage.

HORROR TALES

Fresh tales of horror reached Santiago as communications improved with the quake-stricken region.

Reports from the Arucana Indian reservation at Pehueco, in Cautin province, said 400 of them were buried alive in Sunday's quake.

Miguel Letelier, a student at Austral University, told how people in Valdivia, capital city of the province of the same name, "are starving." He said a dozen plane-loads of relief foodstuffs had arrived "but Valdivia has 80,000 inhabitants."

Letelier said there had been several food riots in the town, "even knife fights over a piece of bread."

ROBERT STRACHAN
... patient first

For B.C.

Health Plan CCF's Aim

PENTICTON (CP) — A CCF government in British Columbia would introduce a comprehensive health insurance scheme based on the philosophy that "needs of the patient are paramount," party leader Robert Strachan said Friday.

Mr. Strachan told a nominating convention here the plan would be built on five principles.

It would:

- Cover every citizen in the province;
- Be administered by a body responsible to the legislature;
- Preserve the current doctor-patient relationship and retain the right of the patient to choose his own doctor;
- Treat the medical profession fairly;
- Not allow any third party, such as a private insurance company, "to make a financial profit out of the human misery caused by ill health."

SOLE OBJECTIVE

Referring to the final point, Mr. Strachan said he is very sorry to see the medical profession currently lining itself up with the insurance companies, "whose sole objective is to provide the minimum of coverage with the maximum of financial profit."

Arguments that such a plan is not necessary because 60 per cent of the population of the province is covered by some form of health insurance plan are not valid, he said.

COMPLETE COVERAGE

"None of the plans presently in effect give complete coverage and many necessary services are excluded from these plans. All of the plans, without exception, demand high premiums for incomplete coverage."

He said the plan, like the British health service, would not have doctors on a salary.

FULL DISCUSSION

"A CCF government, after full discussion with the medical profession, will use the system that is most efficient and economical but there will be no complete salary basis."

All Is Not Lost If You Smoked

By TERRY HAMMOND

Q-Day plus seven.

A lot of people who are following the Arthur King method to stop smoking cigarettes are under the impression that if they so much as weaken once they might just as well quit quitting.

This isn't so. You can go on quitting for seven years if you want to.

ALL NOT LOST

If during the past week you have lit up a couple of smokes during a period when normally you would have smoked 10 packages, all is not lost.

At the same time, if you've slipped through 10 packages when you would normally have smoked only eight, then the Arthur King system is not for you.

So at the end of each day,

if you have slipped once or twice, don't just give up. Simply tell yourself that you will do better tomorrow.

Tell yourself this every night.

After about a week you will come to the conclusion that you are not just weak-willed, but a liar as well.

If you have become a backslider remember that you have invested almost a month of your attention in the Arthur King system.

You have three alternatives:

1. You can simply drift back into the high-consumption category and lose your investment.

2. You can make tomorrow a new Q-Day and start again with greater resolution.

3. You can get in an airplane and fly down to Poughkeepsie and belt old Arthur King right between the eyes.

Up Go Skirts as Girls Call Tune

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A London dress shop hiked the skirts of its dummy models four inches above the knees—and hundreds of real live girls followed suit.

"It started out as a gimmick," said a spokesman for the busy Oxford Street store.

"Now it's become a craze." He explained that one day in early spring the shop manager began thinking of a new way to catch the eyes of window shoppers. He hit on the super-short skirt.

"We raised the skirts to about an inch above the dummy models' knees," he said, "and then put three stiff petticoats beneath them. That got them pretty high."

He said no one in the shop ever dreamed they were starting a style. But the effect was immediate.

"The girls are dictating this fashion," said the shop's chief designer. "No designer would dare give a lead like this. Some of the skirts are awfully, awfully short."

The spokesman said the manager told his clerks to warn every purchaser of the perils involved in wearing skirts four to six inches above the knee.

"Although the view from some angles takes in more territory," he said, "the girls don't seem to care. We can't understand it."

'Chiefs Deserve Pay!'

DUNCAN — A shaggy-browed, ex-Indian chief said yesterday the interests of the people would be better served if chiefs got paid.

In B.C. chiefs get "nothing," while chiefs in Saskatchewan get $25 and are asking for $350 a month.

"I don't think it's unreasonable to ask for something for a man's time and to pay some of the cost that is involved for a chief," said Elwood Modeste, 58, of Mission Road. He was head of the Cowichan band, biggest in B.C., for four years. "The only thing I got out of it was a trip to Ottawa," he said. He represented B.C. Indians on Oct. 13, 1957, when he met Queen Elizabeth.

He made the comments after being asked to compare the office here with that of other provinces.

"There's not a chief that I know of in the province that gets a thing," he said. It causes quite a hardship on many of the chiefs who have a hard enough time making a living while not holding office.

That is the big difference between treaty and non-treaty Indians, he said. B.C. Indians don't have a treaty with the government. Treaty chiefs in Saskatchewan gets $25 a year. The Federation of Saskatchewan Indians is asking for $350 a month as well as $500 a year expenses and a brass button suit.

"A little pay would give more incentive and would make it possible for chiefs to do more for the band," he said.

"There is a lot of worry attached to being chief," he said. Louise Underwood is the new chief here. Mr. Modeste was not nominated to run for a third term. "Problems come at you from all sides," he said. "It is quite a relief (not holding office) after being bothered so much."

June 7 Byelection Set for Duncan

DUNCAN — City council has set June 7 from 10 a.m. to noon as nomination day for the byelection to fill the seat left vacant this week. Voting will take place from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. June 16 in City Hall.

Ald. John Kerrone resigned Wednesday. He had been re-elected for a two-year term last December.

Last $30,000 from Port Alberni

School Board Will Be 'Cut Off' Until Firm Pays Assessment

PORT ALBERNI — Council has accepted the recommendation of city treasurer H. D. Thain that $30,000 be paid to the school board and that no further payment be made until the corporation has received the school taxes involved in the Fixed Assessment Invalidation Act.

Mr. Thain reported that the school board had requested payment of $65,000 toward the annual requisition.

He pointed out that one mill on taxable assessed values of all city properties exclusive of the excess of true over fixed assessment on the MacMillan and Bloedel properties produces $16,400.73. The school levy of 17.701 mills on these values would produce $290,302.32.

Mr. Thain indicated that he had no idea when the money would be forthcoming from the firm, on which responsibility for payment of school levy on true assessed values pulp and paper mill property had been placed by proclamation of Bill 88.

Mill Bay Driver Now 'Fair'

DUNCAN — Mill Bay dog breeder Mrs. Elsie Hammond is now in fair condition in hospital.

Attending doctor said last night she has improved a little. Not much change can be expected for a week, he said.

Mrs. Hammond is progressing satisfactorily though. She was injured in a car accident on the Malahat near her home Monday.

New Postal Vote Bid

Matter Is Closed Mayor Retorts

ALBERNI — Council has already taken care of the matter, Mayor Mabel Anderson retorted when a copy of a letter asking Postmaster

General William Hamilton for a plebiscite on the Alberni post office issue was received on Thursday evening.

Accompanying the copy of correspondence to the postmaster-general was a letter from Alberni Voters' Association.

Port Alberni

Fly Ash Fallout Scored

PORT ALBERNI — Council was again handed the problem of fly ash control when a letter was read at this week's meeting from a resident of Kingsway South.

C. Walker complained that the fallout of ashes and sawdust makes it necessary to clean gutters and downpipes weekly. He said that fly ash from a nearby sawmill can be heard striking windows of the houses and that it makes it uncomfortable to work in a garden.

Live sparks escaping from a broken burner guard are a cause of apprehension. He referred to a serious fire which occurred in the area in 1958. Mr. Walker also made reference to reports that air pollution is regarded as a contributing factor in lung cancer.

"A public meeting of Alberni Voters' Association was held on May 12, 1960. A motion was passed, without dissenting vote, that the letter be written. The association therefore hereby respectfully urges the postmaster-general to seek an expression of public opinion on the matter of postal service in Alberni."

"Many here consider that city council acted unwisely when they undertook to settle this issue on a split vote without a plebiscite."

Council earlier this year had passed a motion requesting enlargement and improvement of Alberni post office building although Ottawa had indicated that such a project would preclude institution of letter carrier service in the city for some years. Alternative to enlarging the present Alberni building was a carrier service emanating from Port Alberni. Council was informed that it could either make the decision itself or put the matter before the voters in a plebiscite.

ALBERNI — Appeals for Japanese victims of the recent earthquake and tidal wave, and support any endeavor to aid in stricken areas.

At a meeting Thursday, council accepted the recommendation of the finance committee which opposed a proposal that a definite policy be laid down for dealing with requests for donations and grants.

It was recommended that requests for assistance, as in the past, be given careful consideration on an individual basis.

MAKE DONATIONS It has been customary to make donations to national charitable organizations with local branches and also to local groups working for the benefit of the community.

Later in the meeting council approved a donation of $50 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and turned down an appeal from the B.C. Amateur Sports Council. In the latter instance it was considered that the matter was a provincial government responsibility rather than one for municipal action.

APPROACH BRANCH It was agreed to approach the local Red Cross branch to determine what effort is being made to help Chilean and

No Final Decision, Says Bonner

Probe Unlikely in Policeman's Death

No final decision has been reached, but at this stage an official inquiry into circumstances of the killing of a Saanich policeman by an escaped Wilkinson Road mental home patient does not appear necessary, Attorney General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

The attorney general's department has been reviewing a transcript of evidence at a coroner's inquest. The coroner's jury found that Const. Robert Kirby was shot and killed by Raymond Harold when police cornered him in brush near the home, and called for a further inquiry.

Berry-Pickers Needed Soon

Berry-pickers are in demand at the National Employment Office.

First strawberry crop will be ready for picking in the early part of June, an official said yesterday—some time before the main body of students is released from school. And the response so far from pickers has been "normal" but insufficient for anticipated requirements.

60 CENTS CRATE

Strawberry-pickers' pay is 60 cents a crate, or for jam berries, four cents a pound. At that rate, the employment service official said, "some children have earned $5 to $7 in a day."

The NES yesterday reported a gradual drop of about 300 unemployed in May in the Victoria district, but said that "the present total of 4,706 is still about 550 above the number registered a year ago."

PROLONGED SLACK

The total includes 3,088 men and 1,618 women, and the slow improvement in employment conditions this spring is attributed largely to "prolonged slack in the building industry and continued layoffs from the local shipyards."

Gordon Head School Wins

Gordon Head School students yesterday claimed 67½ points to win the track and field meet which was held at Frank Hobbs School.

Other elementary schools participating were Craigflower, which chalked up 60 points; Frank Hobbs 55½; Burnside 35 and View Royal 21.

Thousands of spectators are expected to line the Dallas Road waterfront to watch the start of the Swiftsure ocean yacht race at 9 a.m. today.

A good vantage point to watch the 44 competitors jockeying for starting positions off Brodie's Ledge is at Holland Point, at the foot of Menzies Street.

Officials last night predicted a fast and exciting contest.

CHANGEABLE WINDS

Winds during the race are expected to be changeable—a condition which favors the smaller, handicap boats. But the weather forecast is also for excellent breezes which could bring extremely fast times.

South to southeast winds at 10 to 15 knots are predicted for the start of the race and the bigger yachts are expected to open up a quick lead over the pack. But when the wind veers, as it is expected to do later in the day, the field should close up again.

NOON SUNDAY

Changeable winds are expected to continue through Sunday, when the lead boats are expected to cross the finish line at Ogden Point by noon.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 thronged the Causeway last night to catch a close-up look at the entries. The boats tied up at the floats were introduced in turn over the public address system by W. H. Golby of Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

RECORD ENTRY

Mayor Percy Scurrell welcomed the visiting yachtsmen, noting that the event is growing in popularity every year. The record entry of 41 boats, set last year, was smashed by this year's entry, which includes 18 Canadian yachts.

The mayor had a special word of encouragement for two entries from Royal Victoria Yacht Club, the 26-foot sloop Alda and the 31-foot sloop Longa II, and for the RCN entry Oriole, a 90-foot ketch.

NON STARTER

One Vancouver boat, the 45-foot sloop Coral Sea II, will be a non-starter after damaging her keel on a rock off Gabriola Island during the crossing of the Georgia Strait yesterday. She is owned by Arthur W. Way of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Mayor Scurrell with Eustace Wynne Jr., Seattle, commodore of the Pacific International Yachting Association, went down to the floats after the formal welcoming ceremonies to meet skippers and crews.

MOVED TO LAWN

Spectators moved to the lawn in front of the legislative buildings to watch an impressive sunset ceremony performed by the RCN Pacific Command.

The sailing yacht Black Dog will take official guests to the start and was scheduled to leave the Inner Harbor at 8 a.m.

Running commentary on the progress of the race will be given from the store window of T. Eaton Co. Ltd. at Douglas and View Street. Race information can be had by phoning the RVYC number at EV 4-5513.

Squadron Leaving Soon

With 180 officer cadets aboard, seven frigates of the Pacific Command's Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron will leave Esquimalt June 20 for a six-week training cruise to Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.

The naval officer cadets, all either first or second-year cadets of the Regular Officer Training Plan, will be divided evenly between the frigates. The cadets are from universities throughout the country and the three Canadian Services Colleges, taking annual summer training.

Ports they will visit include Adak, Alaska, June 27-28; Yokohama, Japan, July 7-11; Midway, July 18-20, and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, July 25-27. The ships will return to Esquimalt at 3 p.m. Aug. 3.

Postal Delivery Five Years Away

DUNCAN — House-to-house postal delivery in Duncan is at least five years away, Postmaster Robert Corney predicted yesterday.

It has been delayed by the widespread building in the areas around the city, he said. A year and a half ago there were 2,000 houses and businesses in the built-up areas, about 500 stops short of the required amount.

He made these comments while explaining that the post office is advertising for tenders to find out what it would cost to re-route and split Rural Route 2 that is north and west of Duncan.

The postmaster said if it is economical a new route (4) would be formed to take in the Philip, Mary and the Sherman Road areas.

The service now beyond the half-mile limit from the post office is by car delivery to roadside post boxes.

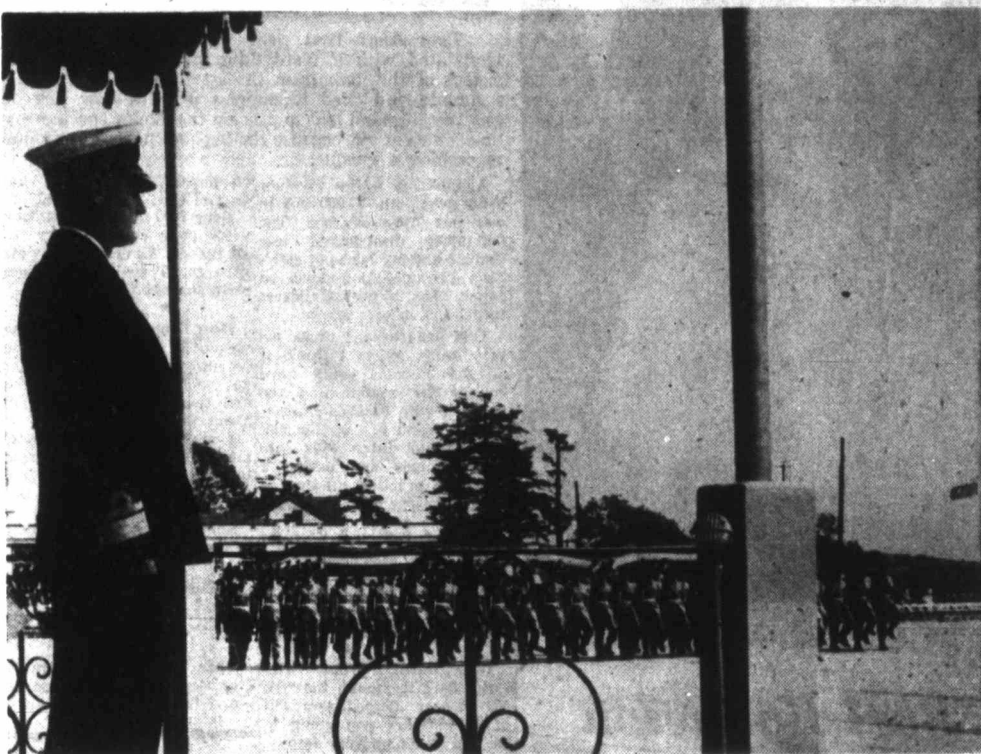

CAYCEUSE — Cowichan logging division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. last night received a meritorious safety performance award from the Workmen's Compensation Board for the best safety record of all camps in its class in the province in 1959.

Award was presented by Charles Whisker of the compensation board to T. E. Burgess, senior vice-president of the company.

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipality has awarded a contract to James D. Gordon of Chemalun to build an addition to the fire hall.

The company's tender of $36,593 was the lowest of five and the only one submitted by a local contractor. They were accepted at the council's last meeting, but not awarded until now because the firms were being checked by architects.

DUNCAN — The off-again, on-again elementary schools sports were finished yesterday between cloudbursts after being postponed a week. The event this year also brought in a new system of running off the sports among Airport Job In Winter?

Mayor Percy Scurrell has a hunch, he said yesterday, that construction of a new Patricia Bay airport terminal building will be a winter-work project.

A transport department official said earlier in the year a start on construction would be possible this year under a $12,252,000 "planning account" item in 1960-61 federal estimates.

Princess Pats Troop Color

'Mere Sailor' Reviews Army

A crowd of nearly 3,000 yesterday had a rare opportunity to see a senior naval officer review the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, at a trooping of the color ceremony at Work Point Barracks.

Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer Pacific Coast, said in his short address to the troops on parade it was a "signal honor" to the RCN on its 50th anniversary.

"As a mere sailor and an old torpedoman," the admiral said, "I hesitate to comment on the magnificent ceremony I have witnessed here today."

Admiral Rayner praised the "fine exhibition of military drill" which he said was "in every way worthy of the spirit and great tradition of your regiment."

The spectators broke into a spontaneous burst of applause at the end of the admiral's remarks. The crowd included many former officers and men of the regiment.

The 90-minute ceremony went off without a hitch. The sun shone brightly but a cooling sea breeze prevented troops and spectators from feeling the heat.

There were some empty seats among spectators in the stands erected for the occasion around the parade square. The battalion, commanded by Lt-Col. J. C. Allen, paraded six guards each with three officers and 54 rank and file. They marched onto the parade square behind the PPCLI corps of drums.

Scarlet tunics of the band—combined with Royal Canadian Engineers military band from Camp Chilliwack for the color ceremony—provided a splash of color among the olive drab worn by the troops.

As the traditional ceremony of trooping the color unfolded the sun flashed on bared swords of officers and fixed bayonets of the troops.

The reviewing officer and his aides stood on a canopied dais. Overhead a Canadian red ensign flapped in the breeze.

In the hunting-decked stands and in chairs arranged at the edge of the parade square there was a generous sprinkling of officers in dress uniform representing all three services.

Guests included civic and government officials. An all-ranks garden party followed the parade to which guests were invited. A formal reception was held in the officer's mess at 7 p.m.

Road Roller Driver Hurt

James Paul Connors, 3224 Aloha Drive, a Saanich municipal employee, was burned superficially yesterday morning when the road roller he was operating at Quadra and Cloverdale caught fire.

Connors was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital, and discharged.

Four More Win Prizes

Four more Victoria residents have won $100 consolation prizes in the Irish Sweepstake drawn on the Epsom Derby to be run June 1. They are:

Policy Switch

Saanich Thwarted Chatterton Says

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton last night blamed an apparent policy switch by the B.C. highways department for disruption of his municipality's 1960 road reconstruction program.

He said Saanich council had expected a provincial grant of $70,000 to match a like sum put up by the municipality for reconstruction of Quadra Street.

GOT $37,000. Instead it got $27,000, of which $5,000 is earmarked for improvement of the Tillicum bridge.

The confusion arose, the reeve said, when the government indicated it would classify Quadra as a secondary highway, and later referred to it in a letter as a secondary highway.

Where such a classification exists, the province assumes half of the construction costs and 40 per cent of maintenance costs.

But, said the reeve, the department of highways has either failed to give the street secondary highway status or else has changed its cost-sharing policy.

The result, he said, is that Quadra reconstruction won't be finished according to schedule and that needed work on Cloverdale, Reynolds and part of Cedar Hill Cross Road will have to be deferred.

Narrowly Missed Child

Driver Still Shaking

Somewhere in Victoria a car driver is still shaking after a narrow escape early yesterday afternoon.

He was driving along Government near Johnson when suddenly a small child popped out of a window of a parked car and fell on the street right in the driver's path.

"I don't know how I missed that child," he told police after ward. "I just jammed on the brakes and prayed." Luckily the youngster was unhurt. It was one of three left in the car by their parents, who were quickly rounded up by police and took off with their family.

To Big Four

Get Back To Summit UN Appeal

Reds, U.S. Handed Rebuke

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations Security Council Friday asked the Big Four to renew the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week and also gave the Soviet Union oblique satisfaction on its complaint of spying by the United States.

The 11-member council adopted by a vote of 9-to-0 with two abstentions a compromise resolution which in part appealed to all UN members to "respect each other's sovereignty."

PACIFY RUSSIA

This clause was seen as an effort to pacify Russian wrath that U.S. spy planes have operated over Soviet territory, resulting in the destruction of a U-2 jet aircraft May 1.

But it fell short of Soviet demands that the U.S. be condemned for aggression by reason of the flights. Russian amendments referring specifically to "incursions by foreign aircraft" were defeated. They were supported only by the Soviet Union and Communist Poland and opposed by six countries while Ceylon, Tunisia and Ecuador abstained.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko scheduled a press conference for this morning but his bearing at the end of Friday's session—the fifth day of an emergency meeting demanded by Russia—indicated that he was not unduly displeased at the resolution that was passed.

The compromise resolution was sponsored by Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia and revised shortly before the vote Friday in a successful attempt to get around a Soviet veto.

NO OPPOSITION

The U.S., Britain, France, Nationalist China, Argentina, Ecuador, Ceylon, Italy and Tunisia voted for the proposal. There were no opposition votes and only the Communist countries abstained.

While the resolution endorsed new meetings among the Big Four, the tenor of charges and counter-charges between the U.S. and Russia indicated that the cold war's chill has not abated.

INCLUDING CANADA

The fact that a compromise resolution was passed at all was seen as a victory for the smaller countries in the Security Council and for others in the UN, including Canada, who have been pleading for moderation since the council began.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Friday sharply assailed Gromyko's charge earlier that President Eisenhower and his government by their policies are placing the world on the brink of war.

Key West, Florida

Mystery 'Object' No Sub

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—A U.S. navy spokesman said last night the navy was "fairly certain" an underwater object earlier contacted by electronics sound was not a submarine.

Capt. Sam Loomis, chief of staff for the commander of the naval base, Key West, said the navy now believed the object was some sort of underwater wreckage.

There had been immediate speculation the ship might be Russian.

All Is Not Lost If You Smoked

By TERRY HAMMOND

Q-Day plus seven.

A lot of people who are following the Arthur King method to stop smoking cigarettes are under the impression that if they so much as weaken once they might just as well quit quitting.

This isn't so. You can go on quitting for seven years if you want to.

ALL NOT LOST

If during the past week you have lit up a couple of smokes during a period when normally you would have smoked 10 packages, all is not lost.

At the same time, if you've slipped through 10 packages when you would normally have smoked only eight, then the Arthur King system is not for you.

So at the end of each day,

if you have slipped once or twice, don't just give up. Simply tell yourself that you will do better tomorrow.

Tell yourself this every night.

After about a week you will come to the conclusion that you are not just weak-willed, but a liar as well.

If you have become a backslider remember that you have invested almost a month of your attention in the Arthur King system.

You have three alternatives:

1. You can simply drift back into the high-consumption category and lose your investment.
2. You can make tomorrow a new Q-Day and start again with greater resolution.
3. You can get in an airplane and fly down to Poughkeepsie and belt old Arthur King right between the eyes.

Monday the group will visit Victoria.

Thursday the group will visit Victoria.

Toll Grows

Starving Chileans Loot, Riot

SANTIAGO (UPI)—New earth tremors jarred Chile yesterday and food riots were reported as America mounted a massive aid program to quake-devastated regions where the dead and missing toll approached the 6,000 mark.

Rioting and knife fights for bread were reported from Valdivia. Unconfirmed but persistent reports circulated that looters had been summarily executed in the Puerto Moggi area.

TOLL 5,717

Unofficial compilation of dead and missing placed Chile's week-long quake-tidal wave toll at 5,717. The government figure was 4,468 with 1,898 dead and 2,570 missing.

Five quakes in 24 hours increased the misery and despair in the south where hundreds of thousands were already homeless, many of them almost at the starvation stage.

Fresh tales of horror reached Santiago as communications improved with the quake-stricken region.

400 BURIED

Reports from the Araucana Indian reservation at Pehueco, in Cautin province, said 400 of them were buried alive in Sunday's quake.

Miguel Letelier, a student at Austral University, told how people in Valdivia, capital city of the province of the same name, "are starving." He said a dozen plane-loads of relief foodstuffs had arrived "but Valdivia has 80,000 inhabitants."

Letelier said there had been several food riots in the town, "even knife fights over a piece of bread."

Russian Pulpmen Expected

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 10-member delegation of Russian pulp and paper officials headed by G. M. Orlov, vice-chairman of the State Planning Commission, arrives here today.

Monday the group will visit Campbell River operations of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., and the next two days the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited's Port Alberni operations and the B.C. Forest Products Limited's Crofton plant.

Thursday the group will visit Victoria.

ROBERT STRACHAN
... patient first

For B.C.

Health Plan CCF's Aim

PENTICTON (CP)—A CCF government in British Columbia would introduce a comprehensive health insurance scheme based on the philosophy that "needs of the patient are paramount," party leader Robert Strachan said Friday.

Mr. Strachan told a nominating convention here the plan would be built on five principles.

It would:

- Cover every citizen in the province;
- Be administered by a body responsible to the legislature;
- Preserve the current doctor-patient relationship and retain the right of the patient to choose his own doctor;
- Treat the medical profession fairly;
- Not allow any third party, such as a private insurance company, "to make a financial profit out of the human misery caused by ill health."

SOLE OBJECTIVE

Referring to the final point, Mr. Strachan said he is very sorry to see the medical profession currently lining itself up with the insurance companies, "whose sole objective is to provide the minimum of coverage with the maximum of financial profit."

Arguments that such a plan is not necessary because 60 per cent of the population of the province is covered by some form of health insurance plan are not valid, he said.

COMPLETE COVERAGE

"None of the plans presently in effect give complete coverage and many necessary services are excluded from these plans. All of the plans, without exception, demand high premiums for incomplete coverage."

He said the plan, like the British health service, would not have doctors on a salary.

FULL DISCUSSION

"A CCF government, after full discussion with the medical profession, will use the system that is most efficient and economical but there will be no complete salary basis."

Crowds Hail Army Chiefs

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Jubilant Turks cheered through the streets Friday, hailing military leaders for ousting the dictatorial Premier Adnan Menderes.

Ousted president Celal Bayar attempted to commit suicide when arrested by army officers.

Before Bayar was arrested in the army coup, several shots were heard near the presidential home at Chankaya, near Ankara.

An army lieutenant-colonel with a gun in his hand entered Bayar's room and asked him to surrender, sources said.

Bayar is reported to have met his visitor standing, produced a small pistol and attempted to commit suicide, but the officer intervened.

Bayar's wife and daughter also were reported placed under protective custody.

Menderes and many of his ministers and parliamentary supporters were under arrest following the early-morning coup.

TRIAL POSSIBLE

A military spokesman hinted the deposed premier might be put on trial.

The head of the new ruling military group declared he has no desire to become a dictator.

Newspapers silenced by Menderes' increasingly arbitrary regime were told they could resume publishing immediately. Announcements said all public officials will return to normal duties today. Military commanders were ordered to ensure that the situation in the country remains normal.

POPULACE RELIEVED

Throughout the country the population reacted with relief at the overthrow of Menderes' government. In Istanbul civilians embraced members of the armed forces in the streets. They were tears of joy from youthful demonstrators who had spearheaded protests against the Menderes regime.

There also were cheers when Lt.-Gen. Cemal Gursel, an old soldier recently tossed out by Menderes as head of the ground forces, announced in a special communique that parliament had been dissolved. New elections were promised "soon."

HEADS GROUP

Gursel heads the group of high-ranking air force, army and navy officers who set up "the Turkish national union committee."

The rebellion that ended the 10-year Menderes regime after weeks of unrest and demonstrations started in Ankara just after midnight.

War college cadets marched on the official residences of President Celal Bayar and Menderes. There was some gunfire but military authorities denied reports that one cadet was killed.

Trapper 'Victim' Caught

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—RCMP investigating the death of a man whose body was found in a burned trapper's cabin have arrested the man who was first believed to be the victim.

Charles Christian Jonasson, 22, was to appear in court today.

The body found last Monday in a cabin at Barrier Lake has now been identified as Arthur Blomberg, 53, a commercial fisherman.

Up Go Skirts as Girls Call Tune

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A London dress shop hiked the skirts of its dummy models four inches above the knees—and hundreds of real live girls followed suit.

"It started out as a gimmick," said a spokesman for the busy Oxford Street store.

"Now it's become a craze." He explained that one day in early spring the shop manager began thinking of a new way to catch the eyes of window shoppers. He hit on the super-short skirt.

"We raised the skirts to about an inch above the dummy models' knees," he said, "and then put three stiff petticoats beneath them. That got them pretty high."

He said no one in the shop ever dreamed they were starting a style. But the effect was immediate.

"The girls are dictating this fashion," said the shop's chief designer. "No designer would dare give a lead like this. Some of the skirts are awfully, awfully short."

The spokesman said the manager told his clerks to warn every purchaser of the perils involved in wearing skirts four to six inches above the knee.

"Although the view from some angles takes in more territory," he said, "the girls don't seem to care. We can't understand it."
